ANNOUNCEMENTS received late for this Column will be found on Page 6.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Mrs. Vincent Rochfort, "Floreen," York road, Dun Laoghaire, desires to return sincere thanks to all those who sympathised with her in her recent sad bereavement; those who sent Mass cards, telegrams, letters of sympathy, also the clergy and those who attended the funeral. Trusting this will be accepted in grateful acknowledgment.

IN MEMORIAM.

ALLEN—In loving memory of Charles Warren, of Mount Thomas, Abbeyleix, who passed away July 13th, 1939. Cherished by loving wife and children.

In tears we saw him sinking,
And watched him fade away,
God knows how much we miss him,
As it ends one year to-day.

COLLINS—Eighth Anniversary—In ever-loving memory of our dear mamma, Mrs. M. D. Collins, of Sandymount. "Love's greatest gift, remembrance."

MYLES—In ever-loving memory of Sir Thomas Myles.

SWEENEY—First Anniversary—In loving memory of my dearly-beloved husband, Michael J. Sweeney, who departed this life on July 13, 1939, at his residence, Achill Sound. On whose soul, Sweet Jesus have mercy. Masses offered. No morning dawns; no night returns; but we remember thee. Sadly missed by loving wife and children.

MASSAGE MACHINE

MACAURA
EXTENDS HIS STADIUM FREE TREATMENT AND LESSONS FOR A SHORT WHILE.

The only real test of a cure is its permanency. Macaura Treatment for arthritis, rheumatic afflictions and asthma has never failed to prove lasting and complete. Hundreds of grateful patients in Dublin, as elsewhere, have put on record their grateful expressions that are convincing evidence of this.

After trial and instruction at 34 Dame Street, sufferers can have the use of the machine for one week at a charge of 10/-, with the option of retaining it by a few subsequent payments.

For those in the city proper who are unable to come to the Macaura Headquarters, the services of visiting operators will be available on the same terms. But it should be clearly understood that this offer can only remain open for a very limited time. There is no electricity, no batteries, no shocks.

Come at once and see

MACAURA
34 DAME STREET
(next door to Hospitals' Trust Office), or, if a personal visit is not possible, a relative or friend can receive instruction on your behalf.

Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 and 3 to 6 every day except Sunday.

BUYERS TIMID ON WALL STREET

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Wall Street was idle to-day, with buyers timid, in spite of the bright business outlook and heavy defence spending, as well as better feeling over the tax situation. Opinion in Wall Street is fairly well established that President Roosevelt is prepared to accept nomination. The turnover totalled 260,000 shares, and of the 574 stocks traded, 126 advanced and 201 declined.

A feeble rally in the early dealings quickly petered out, and trading was almost at a standstill, with the undertone easier and movements very narrow. Aircraft shares held steady, but Steels and Motors were inclined to soften. Oils were steady, in face of the decline in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil.

The close was steady.

Sterling exchange opened 1¼c. lower at 3.66¼ dollars, but closed 1½c. higher at 3.69¼ dollars. Silver was unchanged at 34¾c.

IRISH BANK REPORTS

MUNSTER AND LEINSTER

The report and balance sheet of the Munster and Leinster Bank for the half-year ended 30th June last appear in our columns to-day.

The net profits for the past six months amount to £59,614, as compared with £65,484 for the corresponding period of 1939. With the balance carried forward from the last account the amount available for distribution is £101,508, and the directors recommend a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, free of income tax; the transfer of £12,500 to Contingencies Account, the reduction of bank premises by £5,000, and the placing of £5,000 to the Staff Pension Fund, leaving £41,508 to be carried forward to the next account.

The deposits and credit balances at the end of June stand at £24,430,613, and show an increase of more than £280,000 over the figures of twelve months ago. Notes in circulation amount to £855,884, as against £838,293 in June, 1939.

The needs of the bank's customers to make provision of their exceptional requirements due to the present state of emergency have apparently been dealt with generously, as the figure of advances outstanding on the 30th June is £12,168,563, showing an increase of approximately £600,000 over the figures of June, 1939.

Cash and money at call amount to £3,159,768, while the bank's investments in Irish and British Government stocks and other gilt-edged securities total £11,406,928. The bank's liquid assets at their present figure of £14,566,697 represent 57.6 of the institution's entire liability to the public.

The half-yearly meeting of the shareholders will be held in Cork on Friday, 26th July, 1940.

The principal items in the last three balance sheets are appended:—

HIBERNIAN BANK

The report and balance sheet of the Hibernian Bank, Ltd., appears in this issue. This shows that after providing for rebate on bills, interest on deposits, bad and doubtful debts and contingencies, the net profits for the half-year amount to £33,341, to which has to be added balance of undivided profits from last account £27,231, making £60,572. The directors recommend that the balance available be applied as follows—viz., in payment of a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 11 per cent. per annum, subject to deduction of income tax (same) £27,500, in reduction of bank premises account £5,000, to next account £28,072. The Reserve Fund remains at £740,000.

The ordinary general meeting will be held at the head office, College Green, Dublin, on Monday, July 29, at 1 p.m.

PRODUCING EXTRA FOODSTUFFS

VALUE OF CATCH CROPS

AS much green food as possible should be grown this year for use during next winter and spring. Apart from its beneficial effect on the health of live stock, green food can be used to replace considerable quantities of meals. Much valuable green food can be grown at comparatively little expense by sowing catch-crops after the other crops have been removed from the land.

Such crops as white mustard, rape, Italian ryegrass, or a mixture of all three are suitable for sowing from now until the first week in August, and will provide valuable keep during late autumn and winter. The earlier these crops can be sown the better. Land from which early potatoes have been lifted is very suitable for these crops, and no land which is cleared of the crop in time should be left idle. Every ton of green food which can be grown will be required.

Spring Feeding

Land which is at present under flax, oats, barley or wheat, and not sown down to grass, may be utilised for growing a green crop for spring feeding. A suitable mixture for that purpose is from five to six stones winter vetches, from five to six stones rye and from 10 to 12lb. Italian ryegrass per statute acre. This mixture may be sown up to the middle of September in most districts, and as late as the end of September in the earlier districts. Sowing in August is, however, preferable where possible. The mixture is also suitable for sowing on land from which potatoes have been lifted.

A crop which would serve two purposes and could be sown up to the end of August is Italian ryegrass sown alone at the rate of from 1½ to two bushels per statute acre. The crop will provide valuable grazing during late autumn and winter, and can be saved for seed in 1941. It is important that as much Italian ryegrass seed as possible be saved next year, and, therefore, where practicable, farmers should sow that crop after early potatoes have been lifted.

RESULT of PENNYPOTS CROSSWORD No. 22

The solution decided upon by the Adjudicating Committee is shown on left. Competitors found the first of our Summer Holiday Crosswords very easy and the following 7 entrants succeeded in submitting All-correct Solutions, thus sharing the prize of

COMHLUCHT SIUICRE EIREANN, TEORANTA, announce that the advice to all the people to take in reserve supplies of sugar has had good results. There are persons, firms and institutions, however, who have not so far made special purchases. It is the duty of every one of these to purchase a reserve quantity of sugar now according to their needs and ability. Retail merchants are specially asked to advise all their customers to buy reserve stocks of sugar. We rely upon the people to take immediate steps to ensure that their personal sugar supplies will be safe and that in the event of an emergency those who may be unable to provide extra quantities for themselves will receive normal supplies.

WE REPEAT THAT IT IS THE EVIDENT DUTY OF THOSE WHO CAN AT ALL AFFORD TO PURCHASE SPECIAL SUPPLIES OF SUGAR TO DO SO NOW.

KERRY CATTLE IN PALESTINE

THE introduction of Kerry cattle into Palestine has proved so successful that there is likely to be a good market for good dairy specimens of the breed in that part of the world. Modern dairying has developed so rapidly in Palestine during the past twenty years that it now ranks second in importance to the citrus fruit industry.

With the increase in the number of settlers and the growth of towns, came an enhanced demand for fresh milk. To meet this, considerable numbers of heavy milking Friesian cows were introduced. By the spring of 1936 the market for fresh milk had become saturated. The price to the producer had fallen by about 10 per cent., while the cost of feeding stuffs was rising. The net result is that it is now cheaper to import butter than to make it at home. Owing to the almost complete lack of natural pasture, necessitating the purchase or production of feeding stuffs, the cost of making butter in Palestine is said to be nearly three times what it is in the principal butter-producing countries.

Small Cows Best

By far the biggest item in the cost of milk production in Palestine is the outlay on feeding stuffs. Heavy expense is incurred in growing, under irrigation, the necessary supplies of hay, green food, roots and silage. In the circumstances, Palestine farmers realise that they simply cannot afford to keep large cows, and the Government Veterinary Service have been directing special attention to the merits of the Kerry cow. Small and hardy, a good milker and a moderate eater, she represents a saving in maintenance costs of something like 30 per cent., as compared with the bigger breeds.

In 1934 a small Kerry herd was established at the Government stock farm at Acre. This herd now numbers twelve head. Its health during the past five years has been excellent, and the cows have calved regularly. Records for eight cows during thirteen lactations show the following averages:—Total milk yield, 691 gallons; fat content, 4 per cent.; duration of lactation, 368 days.

The services of Kerry bulls from the Palestine Government stock farm have been made available to cow-keepers in several districts, and the progeny of the first cross with local and Lebanese cows show a considerable improvement in conformation, as well as a marked increase in milk yields.

CLOSER WATCH ON FOREIGNERS

BERNE, Friday.

All foreigners in Switzerland who state that they are unable to return to their countries must report to the authorities under an order issued by the Federal Department of Justice and Police to-day.

The order does not apply to "troops who have taken refuge in Switzerland as a result of war operations."—(Reuter.)

POTATO DIGGING

WHEN TOPS ARE GREEN

Early potatoes and maincrop varieties lifted in August are often dug by hand because spinners or diggers will not work properly when the potato tops are still green. Admittedly, there is the further danger that a lifting machine would bruise or injure the skin of these unripe tubers, but this is not a serious factor when the crop is to be marketed immediately. Hand digging necessitates a big supply of skilled labour often at a time when it is urgently needed for other work. The removal of the tops, on the other hand, would enable a lifting machine to work satisfactorily, and thereby save skilled labour. Where the area to be lifted is large, the tops can be cut off by machine; a thistle cutter, for example, of the type that has horizontal rotating blades, can be used a week or so in advance of lifting to give time for the tops to die. This, of course, has the disadvantage that a week's growth is lost, and so, in recent years, a special potato haulm cutter has been designed to cut and remove the haulm immediately in front of the lifting machine.

Joseph Mowbray, Regent street, who was stated to have been carried a distance by a policeman while on his way to a barracks, was fined 20s. in Belfast Custody Court yesterday for being drunk and disorderly and assaulting Constable Samuel Taylor. The constable stated that when Mowbray resisted he had to carry him bodily from Union street to the Gaiety Picture House (North street).

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

"Great Mudtown," on the South Coast : The Original Pooh-bah
Those Postal Areas : Sir Barry Domville
"The Say of a Lunatic Lover"

Sir Barry Domville

Admiral Sir Barry Domville, a former chairman of "The Link," who has been detained in England under the defence regulations, has, I believe, some associations with Ireland, though I may confess that I have been unable to trace them in the reference books.

One thing, however, I have been able to trace, and that is his association with the Irish "peace negotiations" of 1921. He was present with Lord Beatty at some of the meetings as a member of the Naval Staff. In his book "By and Large," he tells of his meeting there with Erskine Childers, with whom he had served in the war, and with Michael Collins, in whom he was disappointed.

"Lord Beatty was firm about naval requirements. The chart of submarine sinkings round the Irish coast was a mute but eloquent supporter of his policy." The book, it should be mentioned, was written in 1936.

However, another comment deserves quoting: "This hastily patched-up Irish Treaty, which I do not imagine anyone to-day regards with much satisfaction, was one of the numerous sacrifices to American public opinion upon which we were engaged in preparation for the Washington Conference on Limitation in Naval Armaments." Beatty and his naval requirements and limitation of armaments are so quaint to-day!

The last chapter of "By and Large" is a description of a tour in Germany, of praise for the system the author found there, and a mild attack on the Jews.

"Dublin C 3"

Some years ago—exactly how many I cannot remember—the then Minister for Posts and Telegraphs required citizens to observe two new ordinances.

One commanded us to address our missives to postal districts, identified by prescribed letters and numbers. The other, while permitting us to retain such titles for our homes as "Inisfail," "Sans Souci," or "Ashgrove Villa," demanded that a consecutive number should be added thereto as a necessary guide for the postman and other visitors.

So much for the rules. Have they been mostly honoured by breach than observance? How many "Diary" readers could say right off in what postal district they live or pursue their livelihood? How many have added that consecutive number to their homestead titles?

No prizes are offered as the reward of virtue.

"Hush-Hush"

Everybody is becoming very secretive these days, and we are getting quite used to referring to popular English seaside resorts as "an English South coast town."

The other day, however, I was amused to learn that, in a legal action before Mr. Justice Bennett in the Chancery Division in London, his Lordship decided that the town—one likely to become subject to compulsory evacuation—should be referred to as "Great Mudtown."

I have visited quite a number of English seaside resorts in my time—before the days when it became advisable to "See Ireland First"—and there are several of them to which the name "Great Mudtown" might, with justice, apply.

Pooh-Bah

Mr. James Agate, in the Sunday Times, admits a doubt about Pooh-Bah being quite an original creation, and, to shake the faith of Gilbertians, he mentions Lord Factotum in Planché's "The Sleeping Beauty."

Dramatists in different generations have created many kindred characters; but who will challenge the originality of any of them? Certainly I shall not. If, however, I wished to strengthen the dramatic critic's doubts about Pooh-Bah, and, indeed, of all Gilbert's work, I should refer him to "Rhampsinitus," by Edwin Hamilton, set to the music by Cellini, which was produced in the Dublin Theatre Royal about twelve years before "The Mikado" appeared.

In the opening scene a tuneful number ends with the line:—

"To enjoy the feline privilege of looking at a king."

How like "The Gondoliers":—

"With the gratifying feeling that our duty has been done."

Then Fungus, a courtier, enters and sings about the irregular motion of the steamer in which he travelled to Japan being the thing that suggested to him the notion of becoming a General Man.

The whole theme reminds me of the Duke of Plaza Toro's arrival on Venetia's shores, and I cannot keep Pooh-Bah out of my thoughts when I read that the General Man enjoyed the combined sinecures of Court Physician, Magician-in-Ordinary, State Architect and Judge of Common Pleas.

Edwin Hamilton

In "Ariadne," the Vice-Chancellor's prize poem at T.C.D. (1872), Hamilton reveals the same technique by which half the world afterwards was set a-singing the lines by the "Siamese Twins of Satire and Song"; and here is, too, the background of historical absurdity and of mythology upon which the masters contrasted their fun.

And he wrote delightful "Bab." In his "Moderate Man and other Verses," illustrated by Harry Furness, are such-like important personages as Rigmarole Demosthenes McPhallisy Guffaw, a contentious Q.C., who hardly ever quite succeeded in establishing that black was simply white; but his theory, which no one could successfully attack, was that white was just a delicate variety of black.

I like Hamilton Carrollese. In "The Lay of a Lunatic Lover" he reaches the height of nonsense:—

Come then, because the lemons rave
  And howls the sparrow's child,
The future lily builds the cave
  For bantams unbeguiled.

The spider knew, but held his peace—
  The pie was bricked with straw—
And, had he lost the nephew's niece,
  The rest was all they saw.

The best remembered, or the least forgotten, of Hamilton's works is his "Dublin Doggerels," a sort of humorously rhymed guide to the more prominent of our civic institutions.

A Good Joint

Recruiting officers have ever been the target of the humorist, and a story heard at a club the other evening is worth repeating.

A plumber who was called up in an English city went up for his trade test. This consisted of making a joint in a lead pipe.

He was a capable workman, and on the conclusion of the test his papers were marked: "Joint very well done."

Three days later he received an intimation that he had been appointed to take charge of the officers' mess!

A CHARRED WILL

A CERTIFIED COPY TO BE FILED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

Leave was given to file in court a certified copy of the will of Patrick Watson, dairy farmer, late of Calderwood road, Griffith avenue, Dublin, and Broadmeadows, Swords, with his original will of May 17, 1938, the copy to be used for all purposes of copying and for the purpose of obtaining probate of the will.

Mr. J. H. Garland (instructed by Messrs. O'Farrell and Gorman), who asked for leave to file the copy on behalf of the executors—John Moran, civil servant, Donabate; Richard Watson, Broadmeadows, and Rose Watson, Calderwood road, Dublin—said that the will had been kept in a deed box in the offices of Messrs. O'Farrell and Gorman and that in a fire that had broken out in the offices last February the deed box had become so heated that the will had become badly charred. The will was in such a condition that only by handling with great care could it be read: it still could be read through the charred portions; but if it received any considerable handling the charred portions would become detached from it.

The copy had been certified by counsel.

The assets had been sworn provisionally at £2,460, but probably they would be considerably more than that.

BOY INJURED BY MOTOR CAR

Crossing the road from behind an outward-bound tramcar near Merrion Gates, Dublin, yesterday Leslie Fornan (5), of Strand road, Merrion, was struck by a motor car and sustained severe injuries. He was taken to the Royal City of Dublin Hospital and detained.

The car, travelling towards the city, swerved, struck a lamp post and overturned. One of the four passengers, a woman, was knocked unconscious, but was otherwise uninjured.

POSSESSION OF PREMISES

APPEAL DISMISSED WITH COSTS

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

Reserved judgment was given dismissing with costs the appeal, heard at Clonmel, of Bridget Mortell, Owen H. Ryan, executor of Patrick Mortell, Tipperary, and others, from a decree for possession of premises at William O'Brien street, Tipperary, granted to Elizabeth Sadleir.

During the hearing it had been stated that the house, the subject of the proceedings, had been the scene of one of the most lively occurrences during the Plan of Campaign. In the garden of this town mansion of the Sadleir family there had been set up a mart for the inhabitants of New Tipperary, which had been built at the instigation of the late William O'Brien.

Mr. Smith Barry, the landlord, was being fought by Mr. O'Brien and the late John Dillon, and bought the head interest in the property so as to be able to put an end to the rival market.

Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. Ashley Powell (instructed by Messrs. A. Carroll and Co.) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Paul McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. R. O'Hanrahan (instructed by Messrs. James D'Arcy and Co.) for the defendants.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

ALLEGED FRAUDULENT CONVERSION

SOLICITOR REMANDED ON BAIL

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

Bernard Bernstein, solicitor, practising at 69 Dame street, and residing at Harold's Cross road, Dublin, was remanded on bail, charged with the fraudulent conversion to his own use the proceeds of a cheque for £83 4s.

When arrested and charged by Detective-Sergeant Berry, the accused man said: "Definitely not guilty."

ALIENS ACT CHARGE

GREEK SAILOR REMANDED

Emanuel Kafouros, a Greek sailor, was remanded until Tuesday on a charge of landing in this country in contravention of the Aliens Act.

Evidence was given that Kafouros came to Dublin on a Greek ship, but failed to embark when the vessel left port.

Aristides D. Spdthis, captain of another Greek ship, who acted as interpreter, said that Kafouros had told him the reason he did not rejoin his ship was that he was nervous of going to sea at this time, as he feared the ship would be torpedoed.

Mr J. A. Geary (Chief State Solicitor's Office) prosecuted.

Herbert Joseph Compton, a 37 years old rubber case-maker, was at Birmingham Assizes yesterday fined £50 and had his licence suspended for four years when he pleaded "Guilty" to a charge of dangerous driving. A plea of "Not guilty" to a charge of manslaughter was accepted. The case arose from an accident on March 16, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Rachel Whitlock (63).

UNEMPLOYMENT OF TEACHERS

DECLINE IN THE PRIMARY SCHOOLS

REPORT OF EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

THE report of the Department of Education for 1937-38 just published, deals with the fall in the numbers of enrolments in primary schools and the consequent decrease in the numbers of positions available for teachers. In the previous year drastic steps had been taken to curtail the recruitment of teachers and special measures for the provision of additional places for teachers. The anticipation that these plans would result in permanent employment for all unemployed young teachers had not been fulfilled, owing to the continued fall in enrolments and the fact that a number of vacancies had to be filled in accordance with the diocesan panel scheme.

YOUNG TEACHERS

The number of young teachers who would have been unemployed had been reduced by about 120 men and 130 women. The number of young teachers issuing from training colleges in the present year of 1940 and subsequent years would not exceed 75 per cent. of those for 1939.

The scheme for the granting of aid for the purchase of school books which operated in 1939 would, it was hoped, have a considerable effect on education generally. The financial provision for this in the first year was £16,500.

The report pays tribute to the valuable work done by the collection of folklore by senior pupils and teachers.

FOLKLORE COMMISSION

The scheme had been agreed upon by the Teachers' Organisation and the Folklore Commission and approved by the Minister. Under this the time allotted to composition is devoted to the recording of stories and traditions, which were speedily passing away with the death of the older generations. Manuscripts of such matters were sent to the Folklore Commission from 4,000 schools, which, the report says, gives "an idea of how great the contribution of the primary schools has been in this important work of national culture."

The number of schools in operation has fallen from 5,306 in 1933-4 to 5,166 in 1937-8. In the same period the fall in the numbers on rolls has been from 502,661 to 469,925, while the daily average attendance fell from 422,266 to 392,925.

ROAD ACCIDENTS

SERIES OF SETTLEMENTS

(BEFORE THE PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT.)

The following settlements were announced:

In an action in which Mrs. Mary Josephine Ward, Montague street, Dublin, claimed damages against Hugh F. Gorman, hotel manager, Grosvenor Hotel, Westland row, Dublin, for the death of her husband, Joseph, late of Glencroy road, Larkhill, Whitehall, Dublin, who, she said, was knocked down and killed by Mr. Gorman's motor car when he was crossing Dorset street, Dublin, on January 27 last, £900 and a sum for costs to be paid, £400 to go to the widow and the balance to be apportioned among her five minor children.

Mr. Patrick Bourke (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for Mrs. Ward.

Evelyn Bolton (14), who sued by her father, Charles V. Bolton, chemist, Bridge street, Cork, is to be paid £650 and costs for injuries received when a tow-rope connecting two lorries of the Irish Butter and Exporters' Association, Ltd., trading as the Cork and Kerry Creamery Co., Dunbar street, Cork, broke or became unfastened, and one of the lorries mounted a grass margin on the road and struck her, near Bandon, on July 2, 1939.

Mr. Costello, K.C., Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. W. O'B. Fitzgerald (instructed by Messrs. James J. McCabe and Son) appeared for Miss Bolton; and Mr. Frank FitzGibbon, K.C., Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. Ernest M. Wood (instructed by Mr. James McAuliffe) for the company.

Owen McManus (14), suing by his father, John McManus, labourer, Culfur, Mountpleasant, County Louth, is to receive £400 and £60 for special damages in his action against Muriel Portia Cummins, who was sued as administratrix and personal representative of the Rev. J. T. Cummins, late of The Rectory, Delgany, County Wicklow, claiming damages for injuries suffered when he was struck by Mr. Cummins's motor car at the junction of Bridge street and Castletown road, Dundalk, on April 17, 1939.

Mr. Charles S. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Art O'Connor (instructed by Mr. Louis C. Murphy) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Hogan (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) for the defendant.

In an action of James Connolly, Aughnaha, Rosinver, County Leitrim, against John Doran, garage proprietor, Francis street, Fermoy, for damages for the death of Mr. Connolly's son, James, who, he said, had been knocked down and killed by Mr. Doran's motor car on the Curragh, County Kildare, on February 18 last, Mr. Connolly is to receive £275 and costs.

Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. J. P. O'Reilly (instructed by Mr. W. H. Keaney) appeared for Mr. Connolly; and Messrs. Hoey and Denning were solicitors for Mr. Doran.

ROYAL CO-OPERATIVE COLLECTING SOCIETY

£25,000 DEPOSIT TO BE PAID OUT

An application under Section 26 of the Insurance Act, 1936, came before the Court on behalf of the Royal Co-operative Collecting Society, London, for an order that the Accountant of the Courts of Justice pay to the society a deposit of £25,000 4 per cent. Consolidated Loan, lodged by the society in respect of its life insurance business.

On hearing counsel for the applicants and for the Minister for Industry and Commerce, who offered no objection, an order was made directing that the deposit of £25,000 be paid out to the society.

Mr. Patrick McGilligan, T.D. (instructed by Mr. James G. O'Connor, solicitor), appeared for the applicants, and Mr. T. G. Marnan (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Minister for Industry and Commerce.

ECHOES Of The TOWN

By KITTY CLIVE

LISTENING with some friends to the City Manager's admirable talk on the radio the other night, a timid lady remarked that she hoped a notice of the nearest air-raid shelter would be posted at all the 'bus termini. It brought up the discussion of 'bus shelters for the citizens. In many places in the city these are badly needed, especially where country people assemble and at the essential traffic points. During the inclement wintry weather they would be a great boon, and prevent the stampede sometimes experienced. With the artistic standards erected for our Shannon electric scheme all over the country, some distinctive pavilions, no matter how small, need not be an eyesore, but a bright spot in our old city.

BACK TO SIMPLICITY

The great war upheaval is making us all think these days, and the cry, "back to the simple life," is heard everywhere. In some countries it is absolutely imperative, but Irish people are realising that, to enjoy a happy existence, luxuries are not essential. Neither is the outward display in entertaining. Previous to the last war, Europeans visiting the United States were overcome with the amount of cutlery at table for a simple lunch. I remember counting ten knives and forks, with a number of tiny plates for individual accessories—olives, salted nuts, cheese straws, etc. After the war all this was abandoned, and in the most refined homes simplicity was the key-note. To-day luxury industries have been scrapped, and one wonders will they ever be revived?

INTERESTING DUBLIN WEDDING

Owing to war conditions, the wedding of Miss Fanny G. Townsend MacFetridge, the young lacrosse player, and Dr. R. H. Micks was celebrated in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral very quietly on Tuesday last. The bridegroom is the eldest son of the late Mr. W. Towson Micks, well known all over Ireland in connection with his work on the Land Commission, and a grandson of the late Sir Robert Micks, and a nephew of the Right Hon. James A. Towson, a well-known Irish judge. Miss MacFetridge is a daughter of the popular oculist, Dr. MacFetridge, formerly of Fitzwilliam place, who now resides in Sussex, and a grand-daughter of the late Lord Hemphill. She was a Trinity student and a keen sports girl, returning to Dublin frequently to take part in international matches. The wedding reception, which was confined to members of the family, was given by her aunt, Mrs. Cholmondeley Clarke, at her St. Stephen's Green residence.

SPORTS FOR RED CROSS

While economy has affected social life in Dublin, the sports clubs are devoting their activities to raising funds for the work of the Irish Red Cross. Last week the Fitzwilliam Lawn Tennis Club gave a lead to other clubs through the country, and I hear that with the establishment of branches of the Society in different counties several big social functions are planned. The coming weeks will see the society world engaged in this valuable work of mercy, while at the same time the young people will be able to enjoy the gaiety to which their youth entitles them, while our normal life is unhampered. To keep going as happily as we can is the important thing in these anxious days.

PHŒNIX PARK

The successful evening meeting at the Phœnix Park races on Wednesday last makes one ask why we have been so long awaiting this innovation for the public, so many can avail of the evening meeting. As yet it has not become an institution, as in other places, but it may result in becoming a real holiday resort for those who could not otherwise attend the afternoon events. The Park is a favourite with the women, and on Wednesday last summer attire and gay hats and a happy gathering gave the feature that festive atmosphere which we need to counteract the depressing influences of the war outside our doors. It was a relief for all present, and a tonic for the times.

MARJORIE MEMORIAL

It was a fine idea to open the Memorial Fund of the Marjorie Presentation to the friends of the late loved Warden of Trinity Hall. Outside her collegiate life Miss Cunningham had a host of friends in all classes of society and in groups of varied interests. One of the most unselfish women I have ever known, Miss Cunningham had that sympathetic touch with the world around her that called for her services and in consequence she had hosts of friends. All will be glad to avail of the opportunity to honour her memory as a great Irishwoman who gave the best of herself to her country.

A SEVERAL FISHERY

APPEAL AGAINST MINISTER'S DEFINITION

The hearing was continued of the appeal of Colonel E. G. K. Cross, The Fishery, Galway, owner of a several fishery in the River Corrib, from a definition of the Minister for Agriculture defining the boundary between the tidal and freshwater portions of the river by an imaginary line across the landward faces of the abutments of the Claddagh Bridge.

The grounds of the appeal were, among others, that the definition was erroneous, and that the true boundary was further inland, and that no inquiry had been held by the Minister before he made the definition.

Mr. Frank FitzGibbon, K.C., and Mr. Newett (instructed by Messrs. MacDermot and Allen) appeared for Colonel Cross; and Mr. Kevin Dixon, K.C., and Mr. C. O'Daly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Minister.

It had been argued on behalf of Colonel Cross that under the Fisheries Act of 1939 certain parts of this fishery—which had been fished by nets from the time of its existence—could be made such that they could not be fished with nets.

Mr. Dixon said that he had anticipated that the main point at issue would be whether the boundary would be determined by vertical rise and fall of the water—as suggested by Colonel Cross—or by the horizontal movement, as suggested by the Minister. There now appeared, however, to be a conflict on a question of fact, because some evidence—in itself rather vague—had been put forward by the appellant suggesting that there was a horizontal movement of the tide above the boundary marked out by the Minister.

The hearing had not concluded when the Court rose, and the further hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Because he did not want the Defence Forces to be deprived of the appellant's services, the Judge suspended a sentence of one month in prison on Thomas Walters, Manor street, Dublin, who was convicted of having driven a motor car without the owner's permission and without an insurance policy.

In June last Walters, who had been employed by Dr. Laurence Masterson, Manor street, Dublin, took his employer's car to drive a woman to Ballsbridge, and met with an accident when returning.

Mr T. Clarke (Chief State Solicitor's Office) appeared for the State, and Mr. J. J. O'Connor, solicitor, for the appellant.

Confidence as to the future was expressed at the close of the annual National Union of Railwaymen conference at Morecambe yesterday. Next year's conference will be at Swansea. Mr. J. H. Potts (Manchester) was re-elected President.

STORAGE OF FOOD SUPPLIES

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY'S VIEWS

At the eighty-second annual meeting of Presidents of Councils and Conferences of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul from all centres in Ireland, with the Supreme Council of Ireland, held in the Orphanage, Glasnevin, questions arising out of the World War were reviewed. Problems that might arise in connection with the need for making necessary provision for the conservation of food and other necessaries and their future distribution were discussed.

Sir Joseph Glynn, President of the Council of Ireland, who presided, said that members were anxious to know what was their duty in this country should any emergency arise. Their first duty was to carry on their work of meeting weekly, visiting the poor, and maintaining at full strength their ordinary special works. They would keep them ready for any emergency and they would, both as good Vincentians and as citizens, be ready to place themselves at the disposal of the Government or the local authorities to assist in either national or local work for the service of their fellow-citizens.

FOUR MONTHS' SUPPLIES

Mr. Berchmans Hannin (President of the Conference of the Immaculate Conception), Meath, referred to the recent broadcast by the Minister for Supplies, and said he considered every Conference should have stored at least four months' supplies of such items as tea, flour, oatmeal and sugar. One of their Conferences in the diocese of Meath, which had adopted a great number of families (eighty to one hundred) had stored 900 lb. of tea, 70 cwts. of flour, 25 cwts. of oatmeal and 30 cwts. of sugar. He thought that small Conferences could make proportionate arrangements to meet their own requirements.

There was another class to be considered—namely, the employed working man. Few of these married people were in a position to store food against emergency. That problem was hardly one for Conferences, but he considered it would be a wise thing for every town and village to elect a committee to go into that matter find out the requirements of each family and arrange for the storage of supplies.

TURF SCHEME

A letter was read from Brother Crowley, secretary Conference of the Immaculate Conception, Newcastle West, in regard to the Turf Scheme 1940. He said they started the scheme last year with the co-operation of eight men at first. They rented a turf bank and the scheme cost them about £3 12s. 6d., or about 10s. per person. These men got in return for their labour and contribution six horse-loads, or about five tons, of turf per person. This year about 60 persons came into the scheme, which would cost about £35. They cut and saved about 300 loads, so that each of them had enough turf available for twelve months firing, and something like 40 tons was available for distribution among poor families for 10s., subscribed at the rate of 6d per week.

The Chairman thought this should be taken up by local conferences, especially in areas where supplies of turf were available.

TESTS OF A.R. SIRENS

Air raid sirens will be sounded individually during the next few days, said a Dublin Corporation official yesterday. Tests with some of the individual sirens are not yet complete, and residents near these sirens should not be alarmed when they are sounded, he said.

Three Men in a Caravan

Richard Hayward Explores The Shannon

REVIEWED BY MAURICE WALSH

Where the River Shannon Flows. By Richard Hayward. With Illustrations from Photographs by Louis Morrison. London: Harrap. 12/6 net.

THIS intimate book by Richard Hayward is one of the few books about Ireland for which I have been waiting eagerly. Two years ago he gave us "In Praise of Ulster"; and I knew that he was then contemplating a tour of the Shannon; and I hoped that he would treat it in the same friendly, genial, pawky and scholarly way. He has. It took a Northern man to do it.

The Shannon is continental in its length and spread and basin; and, perhaps, this is the reason why, until now, it has never been treated as a whole and intimately as, say, Sir William Wilde treated the Boyne and Blackwater, and as Hayward, himself, treated the Bann and Erne.

Songs and Stories

This is no guide-book, but it is a particularly good guide as to the way a country should be seen and handled. In fine early-autumn weather Richard Hayward, with two friends, Germain Burger and Louis Morrison, crossed the Cavan border in a 12 horse-power car trailing a van. Their object was threefold: to make a travel-picture of the Shannon from source to mouth; to write a book about it, and to enjoy themselves. Germain took the travel-pictures; Richard wrote the book, and Louis illustrated it with scores of lovely landscape-artist photographs. The three of them enjoyed themselves; and so did the people they met, many of whom trailed along as far as business would permit—and a good bit further. And we, the readers, can enjoy ourselves, too.

For Richard takes his Shannon River in his own individual way. He knows the prehistory as well as the history, the stories and songs that inspire, the incidents that give a scene an atmosphere, the talk that makes a man or even a woman alive. In a few words he has the rare trick of drawing forth the character of a friendly but shy people.

From the very beginning, at Shannon Pot, he folds you in friendly tentacles and carries you along. After reading about that queer, secluded, tortured limestone region you want to go across and see it for yourself; and, having got as far as that, you will trail this Ulsterman down to Loch Allen, and, in imagination, have a small innocuous refreshment with him here and there about Carrick, and before you know it you are on the islanded reaches of Loch Ree; you are in the Goldsmith country, Edgeworth country, Clanricarde country, lamenting with him the low fishing water at Castle Connell, refighting the siege of Limerick, seeing the trans-Atlantic 'planes at Foynes, looking out with him from the Castle Green at Ballybunion, and seeing the Atlantic horizon laid down like a bar between Loop Head and Kerry Head, eleven straight miles apart.

Lakes with Silken Skin

Here is the art of Richard Hayward. He lays down his terrain for you in a masterly way: the great river at the centre of things, winding and widening with the leisureliness of greatness; the island-studded lakes with their silken skin (no other lake anywhere has that silken sheen); the twisty, almost secret roads under hawthorn hedges (and dust forbye); the small fields and the cows tail-twitching in knee-deep water; the woods darkly weighty with autumn; the hills green with grass, brown with heather, ribbed austerely with limestone; the little towns that cluster; the ruined castles that brood of fighting men; the broken cloisters that still hold the uplift of a prayer that is not a beggarman's prayer, as most prayers are; and, again, the river that just keeps rolling along.

And then, to make that terrain alive, he peoples it for you out of ancient time and historic time, and this time that is now; and his people talk with veritable tongue. And, if he is sometimes wistful for the old things and dreams and songs, he is also, and at the back of all, invincibly cheerful; and you will agree with him that the present time is not such a hell of a bad time at all within the basin of our grand river; that it is worth while to be alive and loitering, even now in these perilous days of world folly, and that the best way to forget the peril and folly and dolour is to sojourn with Richard Hayward where the River Shannon flows.

Whiteoak Chronicles

The Six Novels in One Volume

Whiteoak Chronicles. By Mazo de la Roche. Macmillan. 8/6 net.

Among the very best novels that have appeared in recent years were the Whiteoak series by Mazo de la Roche. Almost everybody who reads fiction at all has read one, several or all of them, but not many readers until now will have had the good fortune, without a planned effort, to get the whole six novels in their proper sequence.

Messrs. Macmillan deserve congratulation, therefore, for this convenient volume which contains them all—"Young Renny," "Jalna," "Whiteoaks," "Finch's Fortune," "The Master of Jalna," and "Whiteoak Harvest."

It is indeed a big book, but, printed on a specially thin good quality paper, the whole 1,390 pages fit a volume not any larger than the average biography or travel book. It is a bargain, too, at the price. Not every day can we buy six excellent novels for the modest outlay of 8s. 6d.

The Voice of the Vatican

The Pope Speaks. Compiled by Charles Rankin. London: Faber and Faber. 7/6 net.

THIS book, which is really much more than a compilation, shows how the efforts of the Holy See have been directed towards peace. Charles Rankin has made a fine précis of the present Pope's life and labours up to the most recent times, revealing the unceasing efforts which are going on at the Vatican to find appeasement for the combatants and bring peace back to Europe. He writes also of the Pope's career before his accession, and we see the gradual building up of the Christian wisdom and wide experience which makes the Holy Father so well qualified to give ear to all parties and their problems.

The book is divided into two parts. The first of these concerns the Pope himself, and gives a précis of his work; the second contains his allocutions, broadcasts and messages. Cardinal Hinsley contributes a preface.

THE LOST EXILE

(IN MEMORY OF ERNST TOLLER.)

By EWART MILNE.

AND the year unfruitful:
And alien in that city:
And far, far from Germany,
As Germany far from Hölderlin's Spring.

Were the linden leaves suddenly
About him and drenching: recalling
Manhood and banishment and an unlit room?

That cell and the bars? Or the linden leaves?
And outside were the birdloves
Building, and he his own jailer alone?

None to undo his dejection,
The city sounds not joy but agony. . . . .

: : : :

I do not know why I would ask,
Or why I would say "Ah, look,
Sisterly the gentle
Swallows regroup and inherit";

Or why I would say "Ah, be
Brotherly to him, tall trees,
Until Hölderlin's Spring. . . . ."

I do not know the words for death.

The Navies Reviewed

American Opinion

Sea Power and To-day's War. By Fletcher Pratt. London: Methuen. 8/6 net.

"ANOTHER five years at the present rate will bring the Italian Navy past the French, and completely alter the strategic picture. If the Franco-British alliance really believes war to be inevitable they had better have it soon."

Mr. Pratt's book was written before war began, though it was published just a few weeks ago, and in the light of what has happened, and is happening, such judgments as the one quoted are very interesting.

Some of his matter is naturally out-of-date, but what he has to say about war in the Mediterranean, where there is sure to be some naval action soon, is topical in view of Italy's recent entry into the arena. "There would be minor actions, momentary contacts all over the Mediterranean area, distinguished by aerial combats of great violence."

Mr. Pratt, who is an American, has made a technical study of the strength of the sea powers—the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Russia, Germany and Japan—and other tactics and strategy in the event of a general war. As to his own country, he says: "We are secure in the North Atlantic while the British Empire stands and perhaps even if it falls." He illustrates the comparison between British and American tradition by pointing out that British officers write books of chatty memoirs after retirement, full of good anecdotes about duck shooting in China. American officers, while still junior, write profound studies on tactics, strategy, history or logistics in the hope of advancing their professional standing.

There has been a spate of writing about naval affairs recently, but the objectiveness of this American treatment of the subject makes the book more valuable than those which are filled with optimism and wishful thinking.

NEW NOVELS

A Ditty Box. By "Bartimeus." Hutchinson. 7/6 net.

THIS is a new departure—so far, at least, as the present reviewer is aware—for the delightful "Bartimeus." None of the tales and recollections that go to fill his "ditty box" deals directly with the sea, though virtually all of them centre around sefaring people. Two of them describe holidays with fishing-rod and caravan in this country of ours. Ireland, as a rule, is a field either for cynicism or for sentimentality among English writers. "Bartimeus" is an exception to the sorry rule: his experiences here seem to have been pleasant, and he has treated of them with the gracious courtesy which one expects from an officer of the Royal Navy. Of the tales, as opposed to reminiscences, the most elaborate tells of a school mistress's vision on the Victory, and a very fine tale it is.

Journey Into Fear. By Eric Ambler. Hodder and Stoughton. 8/3 net.

This is another of those tales with a hero of an increasingly popular type—in other words, one who neither is in the Secret Service nor has any active desire to get himself into trouble. It is the tale of a journey in a small ship from Istanbul to Genoa—a "journey into fear" in every sense, inasmuch as the main character makes no pretence to be a hero, and spends his time, indeed, in a quaking agony of terror. There have been similar novels, in so far as the theme is a journey on board ship; but this is a really fine example of the type. If you do not shiver with the persecuted man, give up reading novels of the Secret Service.

Dead March in Three Keys. By Peter Curtis. Peter Davies. 7/6 net.

"I helped to hang myself because I made a fool-proof plan—because I forgot nothing," reflects the murderer as he sits waiting for the end. Nor had he forgotten anything. It just happened that there was something which he did not know, and so he was condemned for killing his wife by a means which he had not employed.

"Dead March in Three Keys," which in some ways recalls that excellent tale of several years ago, Mr. C. S. Forrester's "Payment Deferred," is a crime story of an unusual kind and deserves the highest praise.

The Grassleyes Mystery. By E. Phillips Oppenheim. Hodder and Stoughton. 8/3 net.

A quiet, unassuming, wealthy, but tough, Englishman turns up on the Riviera—it will be observed that Mr. Oppenheim remains true to the scene of so many of his former novels, including those that centre round the person of General Besserley—and seeks lodgment. He obtains a bungalow in the grounds of Lady Grassleyes' estate; but, on arriving to arrange terms, finds her ladyship dead, or apparently so. Her charming niece takes an interest in him, while he himself, not to mention Inspector Suresnes, take a correspondingly deep interest in the egregious Mr. Spenser, land agent, who claims to be a co-executor under Lady Grassleyes' undiscovered will. This story, for approximately half its length, does not move with the speed that one expects from Mr. Oppenheim, but it warms up, and the last few chapters—introducing a new and suave scoundrel, a French marquis, are full of colour and swiftness, and in the author's best manner.

Pass Along, Madam! By Anthony Webb. Hodder and Stoughton. 8/3 net.

Tony Mepham's uncle was about "as mean as the measles," and did not care overmuch for his nephew. He entered into an agreement with him—his "business acumen" made him "twist" even when drafting the agreement—that if Tony should get himself engaged to (and disentangled from) three young women within three weeks he would make over a very comfortable block of shares. Mr. Webb concerns himself with Tony's adventures during those three weeks—and uncle has a couple of adventures, too. Needless to remark, Tony wins through, but how he does it is worth discovering for yourself. There are plenty of chuckles—and some guffaws—in this book, which will provide you with some amusing reading for a couple of evenings.

Embezzled Heaven. By Franz Werfel. London: Hamish Hamilton. 8/6 net.

This is the story of faith, hope and charity, all so blended within one person as to bear out the writer's saying: "There are incredible riches in the poorest soul." Teta Linek is a Bohemian peasant woman, who lives in every respect up to her simple convictions. She is an excellent cook and a loyal servant. Her main object in life is to educate her nephew for the priesthood, thus securing for herself an intercessor both before and after death, and to ensure for herself a place in Heaven. Unfortunately, the nephew proves to be a complete rascal. For years he deceives his aunt and steadily robs her of her savings until at last she discovers the deception and is heartbroken. In order to atone for having nourished this scoundrel, who pretended to her to be a priest while, in fact, he was merely a scoundrel, she joins a pilgrimage to Rome, and on this pilgrimage the ravelled threads of her wrecked life are rewoven into a new pattern. Teta Linek finds new hopes. She becomes the object of special solicitude from the Pope, Pius XI. The strain of the journey, her past misfortunes and chronic thrombosis take their toll, and, while yet in the Papal audience, she falls in a faint and is carried to hospital. There the reward for her faithful life comes to her, and, with her faith and cherished beliefs fully restored, she dies peacefully. In Teta Linek, Franz Werfel has depicted a type of Central European peasant, whose simplicity and piety are a strange contrast against the laxity of other classes. The book is sensitively written, the tale told with sympathy and understanding.

"A Joy To Those Who Love Words"

F. R. Higgins's Poems

REVIEWED BY DESMOND MacCARTHY.

The Gap of Brightness. By F. R. Higgins. London: Macmillan. 3/6 net.

WHETHER these notes will be of use to readers already long acquainted with the work of Mr. Higgins is doubtful, but to others they may, I hope, prove stepping-stones to a more exact appreciation of his talents.

In "The Gap of Brightness" there is much rare, authentic, incontestable beauty, though it is more often found in passages, lines and phrases than diffused. Ingots of gold lie scattered everywhere, even in poems where that true metal has not been moulded into perfect verse. His vigour inclines him to prefer spontaneous forms which excuse the irregularities of rhyme and rhythm, and permit the rough touch of actual fact. Spontaneity, that is the mode in which his astonishing gift of phrase finds freedom, as Browning, too, discovered—a poet with whom it would be absurd to compare him, in spite of both excelling in the dramatic lyric. Mr. Higgins's imagination is not analytical: he never buttonholes or argues with his reader, and, though he also treats the grand human passion seriously, there is a wide difference between British bluffness and Irish intensity.

"The Gallows Tree"

Let me boast first of my discoveries in this slender volume, not in order of their importance, but as they occur to me. On page 24 there is a most successful example of the Macabre, a song called "The Gallows Tree," beginning:—

The thin wind seemed uneasy,
The white owl couldn't see,
As high in the light together
They sat on the gallows tree;
So still in that chill of evening,
Only the owl was grieving:
"Hell blind the light, I need the dark,
And where on earth can it be?"
"Its late to-night," the wind whispered,
High in the hangman's tree—
Whispered, whispered,
High in the hangman's tree.

This is more musical to an old-fashioned ear than most of his other songs, the lilt of which is apt sometimes to be broken—partly, no doubt, on purpose—but also because the difficulty of combining sound pattern and rhyme with effective natural speech has not been completely overcome.

Einfuehlung

Next, I have found poems in which interpretation of character and situation rises to a high pitch of poetic intensity. Sometimes, as in "Father and Son," with which the volume opens, the poet himself is speaking. The pensive light of memory lies upon every detail of a walk they once took together, and sorrow conveys impartially—this is what I admire—the character of the dead man his father. This power, which the Germans of another date used to call Einfühlung—the power of feeling into another human being—is well shown also in "An Unmarried Mother Sings," which contains, by the way, an example of Mr. Higgins's power of compression:—

—and your child at rest,
Snuggling the flush of sleep on my troubled breast.

It appears, too, in "Night Frenzy"—the passionate meditation of a mis-mated woman—and, in a rarer form, in two poems, "The Old Jockey" and the still more deeply imaginative one, "The Past Generation." In the former there is an example of his gift for finding unlikely, yet beautifully apt, comparisons. The old jockey has been watching with apathetic complacency such things as —the knife-grinder plying his treadle,

A run of sparks from his thumb!—
When suddenly a dray-horse gallops past him, and
From his pale eyes, like glass breaking,
Light leaps on his face.

MR. DESMOND MACCARTHY.

How well that suggests the vivid swiftness of real attention and here its poetic implications.

Analogies

Mr. Higgins is beautifully sensitive to analogies, using them now in the service of humorous observation, now of description—

While all my bent body seemed as an old crane's,
Lost in a great overcoat of wings.

Heat trembled in halos on grass and on cattle,
And each rock blazed like a drunken face.

A woman as proud as a motherly sow,
Hoked out of my way and hid where a larch
Leant like a derrick across an old barge
Stocked in the reeds.

These examples come from a jovial poem describing a walk beside the Boyne; and here is another—

And hailing, as radiant allies,
Only poets whose mirth
Shortened the four roads, knotted
Over this parcelled earth.

What an ingeniously indirect evocation of cross-roads stretching across a dull plain. Mr. Higgins has turns of speech too, like the glint and twist of a snipe—I am not sure that I have not got that happy phrase from him—for example, "The windy fidgets of September grasses." Again—

But when through a wood's green window I first saw her features Quieter than lamplight, O so sweet were she
That I took from her the innocence of kissing—
Plucking a star of knowledge from God's tree!

MR. F. R. HIGGINS.

Of his felicity of phrase many more instances might be quoted: "Of little birds that neatly leap from twig to twig," "Beef-belted, pea-eyed men of Meath," "Until fierce hail fell scolding on my window pane." Anyone susceptible to auditory suggestion will recognise this mastery in pencraft. His imagination cannot be illustrated without quoting poems in full, but I have already hinted at its dramatic quality and its humour. He is also capable of rapture—see "Dawn Madness," though the close of that poem is not equal to the rest. The imaginative blending of two themes—Old Age and Ireland—in "The Past Generation" is very remarkable, indeed, and its pictorial vividness is charged with the suggestions of profound intuition. Never, I think, has the pathos of the passing of the Ireland of the landlords been more lightly, yet more poignantly, rendered than in "Auction," with its appropriate refrain, "Going, going, gone":—

A house of ghosts and that among
Gardens where even the Spring is old;
So gather around, the sale is on
And nods and winks spell out in gold,
Going, going, gone.

This slender volume has impressed me more than any recent verse that I have come across. The spirit of Mr. Higgins's poetry keeps close to experience, yet it is gallant, wistful, extravagant and free, while his pencraft—I must repeat this—is a joy to those who love words that fit the thing.

George Arliss Surveys his Career

George Arliss. By Himself. London: John Murray. 15/- net.

MR. GEORGE ARLISS is one of the outstanding actors of the present time, and many jokes have been made at his expense since he began the portrayal of historical characters on the screen—he mentions some of them in his book. Some years ago he wrote an entertaining account of his life as an actor up to the time he appeared in "The Green Goddess." Since then he has worked in an entirely new medium—the sound film—and it is right and proper that his screen experiences should be divorced from his earlier work in the legitimate theatre. The film demands a somewhat different technique to that demanded of the stage, and the vast amount of technical work required in a film studio deserves the space which Mr. Arliss has devoted to it.

The appeal of this book does not depend on the fact that it is about—and is written—by a film "star"; it is by no means as empty as that! It is written with the same care and attention which Mr. Arliss puts into the portrayal of characters in films—the result is good entertainment, and instruction on the film industry.

Dudley Digges

Irishmen appear to have played a large part in Mr. Arliss's life as an actor. A Sligo man, Dudley Digges (well-known for his own character acting), was his stage manager for a number of years, going back as far as 1911 when "The Green Goddess" was first produced as a stage play. Another Irishman, Richard Beamish, who later became a member of General Pinchot's Cabinet in Pennsylvania, was directly responsible for Mr. Arliss's entry into the "talkies" under contract to the Warner Brothers. Incidentally, the description of the scene in the London solicitor's office during negotiations for the first contract between the actor and the film company is a delightful little sketch.

Hollywood is by no means all stars and limelight, and Mr. Arliss writes of the hopes, fears and disappointments which meet so many "hopefuls" who embark on a film career.

Studio technique occupies a fair amount of space, usually in relation to the author himself, but it is sufficiently wide in its scope to afford a considerable amount of useful information regarding methods of production. Relations with writers—there are no such things as "authors" in Hollywood; an author who goes there under contract immediately becomes a "writer"—and the executives of the film industry are particularly interesting, and reveal some of the many difficulties which must be overcome when a feature film is to be produced.

Home life—what there is of it for a popular star—and friendships form pleasant interludes in this story of a successful man, a man who has achieved distinction in his profession because of ability, hard work and attention to detail, and one who does not forget his fellow-actors and their share in his success (these, by the way, include his wife, who has appeared with him in several films).

He records information about the making of all his best known films, and the book should prove of interest to the student of the film as a medium of expression and the "fan" alike. The book ends with details of the costs and executives in his nineteen films.

"A Blood-Curdling Book"

Poltergeists. By Sacheverell Sitwell. London: Faber and Faber. 15/- net.

MISS CHRISTINA HOLE, in her judicious book, "English Folklore" (reviewed in these columns only a few weeks ago), has the following passage dealing with poltergeists:—

> There were other and more serious visitations which at best were an intolerable nuisance and at worst definitely harmful. Such were poltergeists who threw furniture and heavy objects about, filled the house with loud noises, and pinched and bruised the inhabitants. In most stories concerning them, they appear to have some association with a particular member of the household, and much time and argument has been spent in deciding whether such people were true mediums, hysterical subjects, or conscious frauds.

This puts the matter in a nutshell. The italics are ours, and, in reading Mr. Sacheverell Sitwell's transcripts of the documents dealing with famous cases, no one should forget the power of mass suggestion when the emotion of fear is called into play. As for conscious fraud—supposing that in the Enniscorthy case of 1910 someone was "playing a joke," what a triumph when Sir William Barrett, F.R.S., turned up to investigate the matter for the Society of Psychical Research!

Hauntings

Mr. Sitwell prints his sister's poem, "The Drum," suggested by the Tedworth Case in 1661. The hauntings at Epworth Rectory is among the "chosen instances," of which there are ten in all: as near home as Enniscorthy and Derrygonnelly, and as far afield as Sumatra.

The whole matter bristles with difficulties. We should like to hear these cases reported on by a committee of alienists with the most modern training: for the subject opens out into the wide and specialised one of psychoses.

Although he leaves unanswered the questions he raises, Mr. Sitwell has much to say that is provocative and stimulating. If "supernatural" manifestations took place in our own house, we should call in the aid of our clergyman just as naturally as we should send for a doctor in illness. If he failed, we should ourselves see the doctor! Meantime, this would be a very blood-curdling book to read in an air-raid shelter.

In Search of Giant Ants

Journey to the Lost World

To the Lost World. By Paul A. Zahl. London: Harrap. 11/- net.

DR. ZAHL is an American biophysicist, and the reason for this journey into the almost impenetrable jungles of British Guiana was to search for giant ants, the Paraponera and the Dinoponera, and if possible to bring 'em back alive for examination and study at Harvard University. Collecting ants, however, is not very soul-stirring in itself, and Dr. Zahl decided when he was in the neighbourhood to explore Mount Roraima—the "lost world" of Conan Doyle's novel.

He is one of the very few white men who have succeeded in reaching the "Lost World," the plateau on top of the mountain—indeed, so far as we know, he is the first to have conquered the surrounding jungle and its own steep cliffs. His stay when he got there, however, was so short, on account of seriously depleted supplies, and the mountain mists so heavy that he saw really very little of anything. Yet he did find that there is nothing very extraordinary on the top of that mountain—no prehistoric animals, or signs of them, or conditions in which they could live, and the country itself, far from being grotesquely tropical, is a temperate, pleasant place when the sun gets a chance to break through the mist, and not nearly so fantastic as the dense, steaming jungles which lie several thousand feet below.

Deep in the Forest

The "Lost World" comes as something of an anticlimax after such an exciting journey through the primeval forests. The author and his companion, a diamond prospector, fly by sea-plane from Georgetown, on the coast, to Tumereng, a small mining settlement in the jungle on the bank of the Mazaruni River. From there, after refuelling, they pentrate still further—to Waramadong, an Indian village hundreds of miles deep in the forest, where they land again in the river and set out to cut their way through fifty miles of jungle to the mountain. On the way Dr. Zahl collects his monstrous ants, and, indeed those chapters which deal with the ants are by far the most interesting in the book.

When the two men arrived at Waramadong, incidentally, they found that a missionary and his wife—Seventh Day Adventists by persuasion—had arrived before them, and were rapidly persuading the puzzled natives to put on clothes, to give up polygamy, and to desist from hunting on the Sabbath. The young people apparently were easily converted to the strange ideas of the white visitors, but the older ones obviously regarded them as the height of madness—which, in the steaming depth of the South American jungle, they do seem to be. Nevertheless, that white man and his wife have given up the whole world that they know, and have buried themselves in the wet, hot gloom of the jungle in order that they may carry these alleged "messages" to the innocent, gentle villagers. We do hope that they teach something else as well.

The book is excellent reading, and much of the country traversed is completely unexplored territory, where many of the tribes had never before seen white men.

RE THOMAS RALPH BROOKE, Deceased.

By a Settlement dated the 30th January, 1912, the above named Deceased, then of Thatched Cottage, Todds Green, Stevenage, in the County of Hertford, who died on the 18th July, 1933, at 10 Harold terrace, Dover, Kent, settled certain Trust Funds to which, under a Settlement dated the 9th April, 1875, made on the Marriage of his parents, Gerald Richard Brooke, Deceased, and Lady Kathleen Bushe, and the Will and a Codicil thereto of the Right Honourable Cornwallis, Earl of Montalt, Deceased, which was proved in the Principal Probate Registry in England on the 10th April, 1905, he was then entitled in reversion expectant on the death of the said Lady Kathleen Bushe upon such trusts after his own death as he should by Will or Codicil appoint and in default of and subject to any and every such appointment upon trust for such person or persons as under the statutes of distribution would have become entitled to the same at his death if he had died possessed thereof and intestate such persons to take in the shares in which they would have taken under the same statutes. The said Lady Kathleen Bushe died on the 25th January, 1939, whereupon the said trust funds became distributable.

All persons claiming to be interested in the said Trust Funds are hereby required to send particulars, in writing, of their claims to the undersigned as Solicitors for the trustees of the said Settlement of the 30th January, 1912, on or before the 16th day of September, 1940, after which date the said trustees will proceed to distribute the said Trust Funds amongst the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which they shall then have notice.

Dated this 10th day of July, 1940.

The Balkan Balance

While Rumania is becoming more and more active in her support of the "Axis" policy, Turkey, true to her sturdy traditions, is continuing to insist on her complete independence. It seems that Herr von Papen, the German Ambassador at Ankara, has been getting into hot water with the Turks, who suspect him of an attempt to embroil them with the Soviets; and in an address to the National Assembly yesterday Reyfik Saydam, the Prime Minister, declared that the Turkish Republic was not threatened by any outside Power, that she desired to remain at peace with everybody, but that her leaders were determined at all costs to maintain and defend their country's independence. Reyfik Saydam also told his audience that Turkey would remain faithful to her international engagements. Shortly before the outbreak of war last year an arrangement was reached between Turkey and the Allies. It was not exactly an alliance, since it did not bind the Turks to active intervention in the war; but it guaranteed at least a benevolent neutrality, stipulating, on the other hand, that Turkey must not be expected to do anything that might cause resentment in Moscow. During recent weeks it has been suggested from time to time that the Russians, having taken forcible possession of Bessarabia and the Northern Bukovina, were preparing to bring about a coup de main in the Dardanelles. Sir Stafford Cripps, the new British Ambassador to Moscow, who has become the latest bogey man of international diplomacy, has been accused of anti-Turkish intrigues in the Kremlin, just as he was accused of having been the instigator of Russia's invasion of Rumania; and there is no doubt that a strong effort was made not only to make trouble between Turkey and Russia, but also to disturb the friendly relations between Ankara and London. Evidently this effort has failed. The Turkish Government is fully determined to maintain its policy of bon voisinage, while at the same time honouring its international obligations. In Reyfik Saydam and Monsieur Sarajoglu the Turkish people have two leaders who know their own minds, and seem to be impervious to external pressure. Neither of them is of the stature of a Kemal Ataturk; but they both are sincere patriots, whose primary consideration is the integrity of the Turkish Republic.

Rumania's position is far more difficult than that of Turkey. She already has been forced to sacrifice two of her most valuable provinces. Hungary and Bulgaria are straining at the leash in their eagerness to seize Transylvania and the Dobrudja respectively, and King Carol has had no reasonable alternative but to throw himself on the mercy of the "Axis" Powers. Italy is a strong supporter of Hungary's claim to Transylvania. Herr Hitler wishes to keep the peace in the Balkan peninsula. Germany cannot afford to endanger her supplies of wheat and oil. She also cannot afford to risk a war on two fronts, and Herr Hitler realises that a Magyar invasion of Transylvania might be followed immediately by a Russian attack on Hungary, via Sub-Carpathian Ruthenia—a development which almost inevitably would compel either Germany or Italy, or both, to go to the help of the Hungarians. It was reported yesterday that Monsieur Manoilescu, Rumania's Foreign Minister, had been summoned by Herr Hitler to Berlin. The leading Hungarian statesmen already had been at the Wilhelmstrasse; and there is a general belief that Herr Hitler virtually instructed them to hold their hands in respect of Transylvania, promising that Hungary's just claims would not be forgotten when the time should come to make a general peace in Europe. Inspired articles in the Rumanian Press during the last few days have stated that the "Axis" Powers had no intention to demand the sacrifice of the Kingdom's ethnic frontiers; and there has been talk of a solution of the Transylvanian problem by means of some scheme of population transfer. It is too early to predict the attitude that would be adopted towards such a plan by the Magyar nobles, who own vast estates in Transylvania; but it would suit the Rumanian book admirably, and, at all events, would be preferable to an armed clash between the two peoples. Ultimately, we have no doubt, the Balkan issue will be decided, not by the decision of the Balkan States, but by that of the Great Powers. The disappearance from the international arena of France has shifted the balance of power in the Balkans in favour of Germany and Italy; but, now that Russia has taken a hand in the game, anything may happen. The spirit of pan-Slavism is beginning to awaken again.

A Third Term?

President Roosevelt remains the dominant figure of United States politics. The presidential election is due to take place this November, and even now there is one question, and one only: "Will Roosevelt stand?" All the omens are that, if he stands, his victory is certain; and the odds in favour of his candidature appear to be hardening. The Democratic Party's trouble is that it cannot be sure of any other candidate's success. Mr. Cordell Hull, President Roosevelt's Secretary of State and right-hand man, is both capable and popular; but he lacks the remarkable personal appeal which has carried President Roosevelt through two resounding elections, and he is not so young as he might be. Mr. Garner, another Democratic possibility, does not seem to have captured the public fancy, while Mr. Farley, the Postmaster-General, is a Roman Catholic, and the United States is not yet sufficiently advanced to disregard distinctions of faith. The President is keeping his intentions a close secret. Almost on the eve of the Democratic Convention, nobody can be certain if he will break with the old convention which decrees that no citizen may enjoy a third term of office at the White House, or if he will withdraw and throw his great influence into the scales on behalf of another Democrat. The problem has been complicated within the last few weeks. A month ago it was assumed that the Democratic Party would stand not only for a continuance of the "New Deal"—even in a milder form—but also for closer co-operation with Great Britain in her struggle against Germany, while the Republican candidate would take his stand upon the virtues of "isolation." The selection of Mr. Wendell Willkie as Republican candidate has thrown a substantial spanner into the political machinery. Mr. Willkie is no "New Dealer," but his views upon the European war are very far from "isolationist." Indeed, if report speaks truly, he is, of all Republicans, the Republican who is most closely in accordance with President Roosevelt's own policy. He does not approve of the United States' entrance into the war, but he holds that her duty is to afford every possible form of help, short of an expeditionary force, to the United Kingdom; and to that extent his nomination has spiked the Democratic guns. The Democrats must act with caution; for American politics have passed the stage at which a clear line could be drawn between party policies, and an inadvertent declaration—or an unwise nomination—easily might split the great body of its supporters. Between the South, or conservative wing, and the "New Deal" champions of the North there is a great gulf fixed: so that every possible permutation and combination of policies must be examined in the choosing of a presidential nominee. Caution, therefore, is the characteristic of every American statesman to-day. Even the President has deferred to the opinion of his advisers in regard to the sale of "surplus materials" to Great Britain during the last week; and one notices that his public pronouncements have been guarded of late to an unusual degree. It is announced this morning that he will not be present at the Democratic Convention in Chicago. Can that be taken as a sign that he wishes his blushes to be spared?

The Red Cross

In 1862 Jean Henri Dunant wrote Un Souvenir de Solferino. He already was well known in his native Switzerland and far beyond it for his philanthropic works, but it is for this piece of literature—and not even for its value as literature—that his name will live for ever. In this book he described the horrible sufferings of the wounded at Solferino, that village on the pleasant plains of Lombardy, where three years earlier the French and Sardinian armies had inflicted a terrible and decisive defeat upon the Austrians. It was not of the victims of Solferino that he wrote alone, however, but of the desolate sufferings of the wounded on every field of battle, and he pleaded in his Souvenir for some form of internationally organised relief to alleviate human sufferings in times of war. There was a saying in old Russia that when the great nobles fall in battle the church bells ring loud; but when the poor man falls only the little harebells shake their heads. Dunant's belief—an uncommon belief at the time—was that the common soldier deserved as much care and attention as his leaders; that the part which he played, unheralded and unsung, was, perhaps, even more heroic than that of his generals. The seeds which were sown by that book did not fall on barren ground. Soon afterwards the delegates of sixteen countries met at Geneva to consider his proposals, and two years later—in 1864—the International Red Cross Organisation was founded. At first its interest was solely in the victims of war, but soon afterwards it extended its horizon of mercy to include the victims of peace-time disasters as well. To-day, with a membership of nearly twenty million, its humanitarian agencies are at work in every country. Its principles are the one philosophy in the world to which every nation, irrespective of creed, contributes with a noble heart. Yet the man who first gave tongue to them has been forgotten; his name is unknown except to a mere handful of the great legion which, it may be said with a certain amount of truth, he founded. Although obscure, however, Jean Henri Dunant occupies a haven in human memory, where he will be honoured as long as even a few men believe in the things that he preached. To-day the Red Cross once again is speeding on its errands of charity. It is at work on the war fronts of Europe and Asia, bringing ease to the sufferings of the wounded; it is behind the lines feeding and clothing, sheltering and sustaining the destitute in the war-ravaged cities and countrysides. Dunant may rest peacefully in his grave. Out of his ideals has grown a world-wide organisation for mercy. It has the active support of every country. Indian princes send ingots of gold and silver and lakhs of rupees, American millionaires sign cheques, the great ladies of England have taken to selling their jewels, and the poor of the earth give their pennies to help it on its way. At this time it is particularly fitting to recall the name of Jean Henri Dunant. He died exactly thirty years ago.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, July 13, 1915.

America and the Lusitania.

Considerable indignation is expressed by the United States Press at the tone of the German Note on the Lusitania disaster, and Mr. Roosevelt, interviewed by several journalists yesterday, criticised the "milk and water" attitude of the President to German "threats." He compares Dr. Wilson with Buchanan, whose weakness before the Civil War earned for him the reputation of being America's weakest President.

Mr. Roosevelt added: "America without a moment's delay should forbid all commerce with Germany, and encourage commerce with France, England, and the rest of the civilised world. I hope that we will act promptly. The hundred and fifty babies and the hundred women who were drowned when the Lusitania was torpedoed offer an eloquent commentary on the theory that the policy of blood and iron can be met with efficacy by a policy of milk and water."

The Russians Stand Firm.

The Russians continue to hold their ground against the Austro-German onslaught in Poland. No ground has been lost since a week ago Imperial Headquarters announced: "We retire no further."

A statement issued last night says: "Our troops have finished the counter-offensive, in which they gained important successes, regaining on the River Bug many of our lost positions. All is quiet on the Vistula. In the direction of Lublin there were only isolated engagements. The enemy has worn himself out battering against our impenetrable wall."

WHY SEA EVACUATION WAS POSTPONED

THE FATE OF THE ARANDORA STAR

The postponement of the British Government's sea evacuation scheme was officially announced last night.

A Ministry of Information statement said that, "In view of the fate of the Arandora Star the Government are unable to take the responsibility of sending shiploads of children away from the country without convoy.

"It has, therefore been regretfully decided that the operation of the Government scheme must be postponed for the present. Children sent apart from the Government scheme will be allowed to leave either at their parents' risk or at the risk of the voluntary associations which have arranged for their transport."

The chief problem which the Government had to solve, it is understood, was that, while there was ample shipping available for the transport of the children to the Dominions and to the United States, there were not sufficient naval vessels available for convoy duties owing to the great demands now made on the Admiralty.

AMERICAN CITIZENS DISAPPOINTED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Friday.

Thousands of private American citizens, who had hoped to be able to help Britain by taking care of British children for the duration of the war, will be disappointed by the British Government's decision to postpone the evacuation of children overseas.

It is recognised here that the decision is due to the shortage of shipping accommodation, or rather the impossibility of assuring the safety of enough ships.

AUSTRALIAN AIRMEN IN CASUALTY LIST

The Royal Australian Air Force is mentioned for the first time in British Air Ministry casualty list No. 38, issued yesterday. Among the 233 officers and airmen the names of an Australian Flight-Lieutenant and a sergeant are given as missing. In the R.A.F. section, of 16 of those previously reported missing, three are now safe, one is wounded or injured, and twelve are prisoners. Eight have been killed in action; 55 previously reported missing are now either presumed or reported killed in action, four have been wounded or injured in action, 103 are missing and seven have been killed on active service.

LONDON LETTER

FRENCH EMBASSY WITHDRAWAL

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

THE French Embassy staff in London is being officially withdrawn, but several members have made up their minds that they will not leave for some little time. In fact, there are great difficulties in reaching France, the principal being that of communication. Before the Embassy can leave a ship has to be found, and arrangements made with the German Government through the Swiss Legation in London, or through the United States Embassy, and then a neutral port has to be arranged by agreement through neutrals between Germany, France and Britain. There are difficulties also connected with telegraphic communication and a priority telegram between the two countries takes at least three days. Some of the more important members of the Embassy staff intend to remain in England, these including M. Roger Cambon, who resigned his post as Chargé d'Affaires last week.

In a few days, however, the historic French Embassy at Albert Gate will be empty except for a custodian. The building contains a great deal of valuable property, including some beautiful plate, rare porcelain, pictures and Gobelin tapestries, all of which are French property. The present building has been occupied as the French Embassy for 75 years, and Baron Lionel Nathan de Rothschild originally held the lease on behalf of Napoleon III., but in 1898 the property was ceded by the Crown to the French Government on condition that it always housed the French Embassy. It thus became French soil and has remained so.

Coming to Dublin

One of the members of the French Embassy will not return directly to France, as M. Louis Roche, the second Secretary, has been appointed to the French Legation in Dublin, and will proceed there immediately. The Evening Standard says that he will leave his wife and child in England in the meantime.

Mme. Roche, who has often acted as hostess for M. Corbin, has been well schooled in the diplomatic tradition by her father, who was for some time head of the French Foreign Office, it was while her father was Minister in Warsaw that Mme. Roche met her future husband.

Haile Selassie

The recognition of Ethiopia by the British Government as an ally may be regarded as the first act of restoration to a victim of aggression. The authority of the Emperor Haile Selassie, which was abolished by the Anglo-Italian agreement of November, 1938, has been completely restored, and in this connection it is said that recognition has been brought about largely through the tireless efforts of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst. Abyssinia is likely to be of very considerable importance to the Allies.

Mr. Butler, the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in answering a question, put on the order paper of the House of Commons by Colonel Wedgewood, states that he could give an assurance that the British Government "realise the importance of co-ordinating all activities likely to damage Italian military efforts in North and East Africa and in Abyssinia."

Food-growing Plan

A far-reaching policy will be announced next month by the Ministry of Food, the result of recommendations of an advisory committee under the chairmanship of Sir William Bragg and Lord Woolton and Mr. R. S. Hudson as Ministers of Food and Agriculture, who will work together to put them into operation. Potatoes, oats and beans are likely to be grown on a big scale. All possible use will be made of grassland for dairy cattle. Milk is to be one of the nation's great basic foods. Home-grown meat, especially beef, will not be of the quality to which people are accustomed. It is likely that the crop of potatoes and beans will be used not only as separate foods, but to provide flour mixtures. The farmers will grow for maximum quantity, according to the suitability of their land, and not for the maximum return of money per acre, according to the varied price of different crops.

Canadian Harvest

With the harvesting of the coming wheat crop in Canada that Dominion will possess, together with her present stock of wheat, enough of that commodity to supply this country with wheat for the next three years. An estimate of prospective Canadian wheat supplies in the season which begins at the end of this month shows that they will constitute a record in the history of the Dominion. The expected carry-over of stocks at the end of this month is put at 240,000,000 bushels, while the probable crop this season will be 416,000,000 bushels, although it may be slightly less owing to the recent exceptionally dry weather in the prairie lands. From this total of 656,000,000 bushels it is necessary to deduct 120,000,000 bushels for the domestic requirements of the Dominion, which gives a surplus available for export and carry-over next year of 536,000,000 bushels.

Tea Ration

During the first two days of tea rationing shoppers were able to obtain two weeks' supply at one time by handing over two weeks' coupons, but doubts arose as to whether this was permissible, and housewives doing their week-end shopping to-day found that they were restricted to one week's ration of two ounces per ration book in the same way as other commodities subject to the ration scheme. Representations are to be made to the authorities to permit purchases of a fortnight's supply to be made in order that odd packets of two ounces need not be involved, but it is by no means certain that this concession will be forthcoming. One result of the rationing of tea has been to increase the demand for coffee, and to a less extent the sale of cocoa has also increased; but in most cases the opinion is expressed that the ration of two ounces of tea per week per head will be sufficient to meet requirements.

Fort Belvedere

The appointment of the Duke of Windsor as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Bahamas may enable use to be made of his country estate, Fort Belvedere, in Surrey, unoccupied since he abdicated. Although not used as a residence, it has been maintained in habitable condition by the Office of Works, and it is probable that it may be taken over by a Government department, though no decision in this connection has yet been reached. The accommodation is not sufficient for any large Government staff, but, no doubt, suitable use could be made of the buildings by a section of a department performing duties which need not necessarily be done in London. Another possibility is that the property may be found suitable for use as an armed post in connection with the scheme for the defence of the country.

B.B.C. Priority

A number of questions about B.B.C. "priority over newspapers in the dissemination of official announcements" are to be asked in the House of Commons on Wednesday. Sir Archibald Southby (Conservative, Epsom) will ask the Minister of Information if this priority is his established policy, and why Dominion and American correspondents were prevented by the Censor from cabling the appointment of the Duke of Windsor to be Governor of the Bahamas and the action against the French naval forces at Oran until after the news was broadcast by the B.B.C.—in the latter case on the short-wave broadcast.

TURKEY PREPARED TO FIGHT TO THE LAST

DECLARATION BY THE PRIME MINISTER

Will Remain Faithful To All Engagements

NOT UNFRIENDLY TO RUSSIA

German Interest In Rumanian Oil

DR. REYFIK SAYDAM, the Turkish Premier, told the National Assembly yesterday that his Government was convinced that "no danger menaces Turkey."

He asserted that Turkey will remain faithful to all engagements, but denied that she had taken any action unfriendly to Russia or any other country.

"Turkey's only answer to any threat to her independence will be to take up arms and defend the country to the last," he added.

This statement was taken as disposing of assertions, made particularly by Germans, that Russia had presented an ultimatum to Turkey, says the Associated Press.

As the Turkish Premier was speaking, M. Manoilescu, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, was reported to be preparing to fly to Berlin, amid a lessening of the tension in the Balkans over the problem of Transylvania.

Another report says that M. Manoilescu exchanged good-will telegrams with Count Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister, and officials announced that the visit to Berlin would be postponed for several days.

The controlled Rumanian Press came out yesterday with an assurance that the Axis Powers would not demand the sacrifice of Rumania's "ethnic frontier" to satisfy Hungary's territorial claims.

The best solution for the problem of Transylvania, an authorised leading article stated, was by way of exchange of populations. This solution has been put forward consistently by the Rumanian Press. At the same time, it does not appear that Hungary will press for any immediate solution of Transylvania.

The Rumanian Foreign Minister goes to Germany at a time, Axis sources state, when Herr Hitler is determined to prevent an outbreak of war in South-Eastern Europe, on which he depends largely for his wheat and oil.

Rumanian military circles reported yesterday that mobilisation of the army will be continued indefinitely, while consolidation of the defence positions along the new Rumanian-Russian frontier progresses.

CONFIDENCE VOTE PASSED

In his speech, after which the Assembly voted confidence in the Government, and especially in Foreign Minister M. Sarajoglu, the Turkish Premier stated:—

"Turkey will remain faithful to engagements contracted and to her friendships. She is animated by no warlike sentiment against any country or neighbour.

"The Turkish Government is convinced despite international events, that no danger menaces Turkey.

"While deciding to maintain friendly relations with all her neighbours, Turkey is no less decided to defend her independence and will rise as one man to face any eventuality."

The Premier added that "peace in the Near East should be maintained."

"The measures we are taking to ensure Turkey's security and the nation's well-being are proceeding without difficulty, and the Turkish citizen is fulfilling his duty with pride, happiness and confidence.

VERY MUCH ALIVE

"The first thing to remember in attempting to influence Turkey is that she is no longer the dead and gone Ottoman Empire. The maintenance, departure, or replacement of Turkish statesmen can only take place by the decision of the Turkish National Assembly and with its approval.

"The men now directing Turkey have only one programme—the security of the Turkish Republic—and alongside that cherishing the friendships appropriate to Turkish interests and security.

"Faithful to her friendship and resolute to defend her independence and liberty, Turkey, united like a single body, awaits events.

THE ONLY RESPONSE

"We do not attempt either to provoke or attack our neighbours. We note with satisfaction the evident proof that the same sentiments are shared by them. The only response which the Turkish people will make to any action threatening the independence of the Turkish Republic or the integrity of its territory will consist in taking up arms and defending the country to the last.

"In spite of the world's unstable situation our country does not seem exposed to any imminent danger, and continues to be animated by the will to maintain good relations with all States, particularly with her neighbours."

The British Ambassador was among those present in the Diplomatic Gallery during the delivery of the speech, which was frequently punctuated by prolonged applause.

ATTACK ON ENGLAND DEFERRED

ECONOMIC WAR ALTERNATIVE

The possibility of an immediate attack on Britain tends to be placed in the background by dispatches from Berlin correspondents, says a P.A. War Special message from Bucharest.

It is declared that Germany wishes first to organise Europe for an economic counter-blockade, abandoning military action in favour of an economic war, which would confine itself to the maintenance of a state of hostilities between two completely separated "worlds."

RUMANIAN OIL PROBLEMS

GERMAN EFFORT TO SECURE CONTROL

BUCHAREST, Friday.

Rumania's oil is more than ever the bone of contention between foreign interests, and the Germans are fighting to get control of it by economic pressure.

A new decree governing holdings in the various Rumanian oil companies provides that from now on all shares of these companies must be registered shares, and that details of them shall be presented to the Minister of National Economy within thirty days.

The total British capital invested in the Rumanian oil companies is between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000.

Under the new decree shares held abroad must be presented through diplomatic or Consular channels, with papers showing the holders and the dates and places of purchase. The transfer of such shares cannot be effected without the authority of a special Rumanian Commission which is to be created.

IN HIGHER INTERESTS

The decree adds that the new regulation has been made for the higher interests of the national economy. Persistent rumours that the British-owned companies are endeavouring to dispose of their shares to Russian interests are untrue.

These rumours have certainly had the effect of angering Rumanians, and have probably precipitated the new decree, which is interpreted in some quarters as a step towards nationalisation.

The total British capital invested in the Rumanian oil companies is between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000, while output to United Kingdom ports averaged recently about 100,000 tons a month, with a peak figure in March of 129,000 tons.

Shipments are momentarily at a standstill owing to Mediterranean navigation difficulties, but British tankers are due shortly and there is no immediate hindrance to the loading of the supplies in arrear.

PAYMENT IN EXCHANGE

The chief difficulty of the British exporting companies is payment. Under the last Anglo-Rumanian clearing agreement payment was arranged on the understanding that certain quantities of British and Empire raw materials would be imported.

Italy's entry into the war has impeded such imports, and the Rumanian authorities are not inclined to grant export licences to the companies before a payments agreement satisfactory to Rumanian interests has been reached.

GERMAN EFFORTS

The Germans are taking advantage of this position. Owing to the paucity of transport they cannot effect the loading of their monthly quota of 30,000 tons, and they are endeavouring to induce the Rumanians to requisition the British, French, Belgian and Dutch Danubian fleets of barges and tugs.

The Rumanian authorities refuse to allow this fleet to leave the Danube, and they have also immobilised four British tugs, 13 British grain lighters and three oil tankers now in Danubian ports.

This action has been taken despite the fact that there are British contracts amounting to 100,000 tons still outstanding which cannot be fulfilled under the present restrictions. Strong British representations concerning recent expulsions of British subjects working for oil companies have brought assurances that no further similar measures are contemplated.—(P.A. Foreign Special).

LATE NEWS

RAIDING 'PLANES AGAIN IN BRITAIN

German aircraft last evening carried out attacks on places in the South-West of England and in Wales. Bombs were dropped, but little damage was caused, and casualties are believed to have been very slight Anti-aircraft fire was heard when aircraft, believed German, were over North-East England. No bombs appeared to have been dropped.

High explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped in South-East and South-West Scotland last night, and incendiary bombs in North-East Scotland. No indication of casualties or damage was given.

Anti-aircraft fire was heard when aircraft believed to be German were over North-East England last night. No bombs appeared to have been dropped.

A German aircraft was also heard from a north-east town. No bombs were dropped, but heavy explosions were heard after the bomber had passed over.

Searchlights were in action. Ground batteries did not open fire.

BOMBS ON SCOTLAND

There were a number of casualties, believed to include an elderly man fatally injured. when a lone raider flew over a South-West Scottish area to-day. Three bombs were dropped on a housing area. A building containing six flats was wrecked.

WALES MAY BE A "DANGER ZONE"

PROPOSAL TO EVACUATE SCHOOL CHILDREN

Certain Welsh education committees have been asked if they are prepared to consider the evacuation of local school children.

Making this request, the local Trades and Labour Councils state that the area must, in the light of recent events, be regarded as a danger and not a neutral zone.

One director of education, in replying, says that the attention of the Board of Education had already been drawn to the new situation, and that the Federation of Welsh Education Authorities had made similar representations for a number of towns in Wales. These representations are now being considered by the Ministry of Health

GREAT FIRE IN PAPER WORKS

Flames rose to a height of 100 feet during a fire late last night at the premises of the Swan Mill Paper Co., Ltd., Old Dockyard, Woolwich, and the glow could be seen for many miles.

Two hundred firemen with forty appliances were engaged. Part of the building was formerly the old Woolwich dockyard. The fire was extinguished at midnight.

BRITISH STEAMERS FIRED ON

NEW YORK.

Moscow radio, heard here, announced that Japanese warships fired on two British steamers off the coast of Central China.

The Moscow announcement said that six were killed and one wounded aboard the British vessels, which were travelling in the direction of Fukien Province.—(Associated Press.)

HEAVY FIGHTING AT KENYA

BIG ITALIAN LOSSES

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL

CAIRO, Friday.

The British war communiqué issued here to-night states:—

"Kenya, Northern Frontier District—At British Moyale (near the Kenya-Abyssinian border) our defences, which were damaged by heavy artillery fire supporting the original attack on July 9 (Tuesday) were repaired during the night.

"On July 10 (Wednesday) a counter attack inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, and fighting continues.

"On the Sudan-Abyssinian border—Nothing to report.

"Somaliland—Camel corps patrols continue their offensive action against frontier posts, and daily losses are inflicted on the enemy.

"Western Desert (which borders on Libya)—Nothing to report."

The communiqué continues:—

"Enemy casualties are not yet known, but are believed to be heavy.

"Our aircraft carried out reconnaissances and attacks against machine-gun posts and artillery positions in the Moyale area, two machine posts being destroyed.

"At about 5 o'clock last evening our machines met three Capronis and two fighters and put them in flight."

MOYALE STILL BELEAGURED

NAIROBI, Friday.

The garrison at British Moyale, on the Kenya-Abyssinia frontier, which the Italians have been attacking since Wednesday morning, had not at noon to-day yet made contact with troops coming to its relief.

An official communiqué announcing this stated that the relieving troops were holding positions on the escarpment.

ITALIANS PEEP AT ALEXANDRIA

ALEXANDRIA, Friday.

Italian scouting 'planes were reported to have been sighted over Alexandria to-day, flying very high and possibly trying to check fleet movements in this area. The enemy 'planes withdrew without making any attack.

An air raid alarm was sounded, but it lasted only a few minutes.—(Associated Press.)

FRENCH LINER SANK IN 20 MINUTES

AMERICAN 'PLANES REPORTED ABOARD

NEW YORK, Friday.

The French liner Champlain (28,124 tons), sunk by a mine off the French coast last month, carried a cargo of American aeroplanes, according to Mr. Michel Weill, a Francisco business man, who states that he witnessed the sinking.

The liner, Mr. Weill stated, was sunk in La Rochelle Harbour on June 27 by a magnetic mine dropped from an aeroplane. She went down in twenty minutes. All the crew were saved.—(P.A. War Special.)

UNITED STATES PRESIDENCY

Mr. Roosevelt's Nomination

NOW REGARDED AS CERTAIN

SHOULD President Roosevelt decline to accept the Democratic nomination for a third term as President, the Chicago Convention will become a scene of complete confusion and inter-party strife. His nomination by the Convention is now regarded as almost certain, although there are still some who doubt it, says a Reuter telegram from Washington last night.

VICE-PRESIDENCY

If he does agree to break with the tradition that no President serves more than two terms, the main interests in the Convention will be the nomination of a Vice-Presidential candidate and the formulation of the party platform. This candidate may be either a strong supporter of Roosevelt's "New Deal" or a Southern Democrat.

The choice of a Southern Democrat would keep the conservative wing of the party in line, while a "New Deal" man would lend credence to the report that President Roosevelt may resign when the world crisis has passed and allow the Vice-President to instal himself at the White House.

LIKELY CHOICE

The nomination of Mr. Cordell Hull for the Vice-Presidency would be welcomed by the Southern Democrats, while Mr. William Douglas, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, is regarded as the most likely choice if a "New Deal" supporter is selected.

If President Roosevelt is a candidate, his only opponents for the nomination will be Mr. Garner, who is now Vice-President, and possibly Mr. Farley, the Postmaster-General. Neither is believed to have the slightest chance against the President.

Mr. Burton Wheeler, the Isolationist Senator from Montana, who had threatened to bolt the Convention and form a separate "peace party," this morning issued a statement saying that he would support whoever the party nominated. "There is no question of a third party," he said.

WILL NOT GO TO CONVENTION

STATEMENT BY MR. ROOSEVELT

President Roosevelt stated definitely to-day that he will not go to Chicago to attend the Democratic Convention. At his Press conference to-day he again avoided all questions regarding his intentions should he be nominated for a third term of office.

He told pressmen that he was conferring later to-day with Mr Stimson, the new United States Secretary of War regarding the mobilisation of the National Guard for training.

THE NATIONAL GUARD

General George Marshall, testifying before the Senate Military Affairs Committee to-day favoured mobilising the National Guard immediately for training purposes.

Compulsory military training was immediately necessary, he said, if the United States Regular Army and National Guard units were to be brought up to their full strength.

The Burke Wadsworth Bill for compulsory military training on a selective basis would, he stated, accord with the War Department's views after a few minor changes.

General Marshall, who is Chief of Staff of the Army, added that with voluntary enlistment it would take too long to bring the Army to full strength.

ARMY OF 1,400,000

A War Department official told the Senate Committee that the Army would have 930,000 men in training by October 1 if Congress enacted the Military Training Bill.

The number was being increased to 1,415,000 by next April, the official added.

FEDERAL TRAINING FOR NATIONAL GUARD

WASHINGTON, Friday.

President Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson have decided to give Federal training to four divisions of the National Guard "as soon as possible."

Training in modern mechanised warfare will also be given to seven anti-aircraft regiments of the National Guard and to an undetermined number of Harbour Defence Regiments, it is announced at the White House.

Mr. Stephen Early, President Roosevelt's Private Secretary, announced that on completion of the training of the first four Guard Divisions it would be determined whether the Government should undertake to expand the training of other National Guard Organisations.

Mr. Early said that President Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson stated that they had received reports that "an overwhelming majority of Guardsmen themselves desire this training."—(Reuter.)

NEW FRENCH CABINET

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

VICHY, Friday.

The entire French Cabinet handed in their resignations to-night, and later the French Radio announced that a new list of Ministers would be announced to-morrow.

It was also stated that Marshal Petain, now "Chief of the State," has called his first Cabinet meeting for to-morrow at 6 p.m.

Marshal Petain is expected to choose as his three principal Ministers General Weygand, M. Pierre Laval and M. Marquet.

VICHY, Later.

A Decree to be published in the official journal to-morrow appoints M. Pierre Laval as Vice-Premier.

Other Ministers are:—Justice — Raphael Albert. Under Secretary of State—Adrian Marquet, who held the same post in the last Cabinet. Foreign Affairs—M. Baudoin. Finance—M. Boutillier. Defence—General Weygand. Minister of Public Instruction—Senator Emile Mireux. Youth and Family—M. Ybarnegaray. Agriculture—Pierre Caziot. Communications — Deputy Francois Peitri. Colonies—Senator Henri Lemery. War—General Colson. Navy—Admiral Darlan. Aviation—General Pujo.

The last three are all the same Ministers. The Ministers for Industry, Production and Labour will be named later, according to the Decree.

No More Iced Cakes

The making of iced cakes, cream buns, eclairs and similar confectionery, after August 5, 1940, has been prohibited by the British Minister of Food. After that date it will be an offence to place sugar on the exterior of any cake, biscuit, bun, pastry, scone, bread, roll, or similar article after baking. Glucose and fondant are included in the term "sugar," but not chocolate couverture.

ABERDEEN TO HAMPSHIRE

The British Air Ministry, describing the destruction of eleven German bombers by the R.A.F. round the British coasts yesterday, states:—

Nine were shot down by Spitfires and Hurricanes, one by an Anson of the Coastal Command, and one by anti-aircraft gunners. They crashed at different points on land or in the sea from Aberdeenshire to Hampshire.

PRESIDENCY OF MEXICO

BOTH CANDIDATES CLAIM MAJORITY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MEXICO CITY, Friday.

An extraordinary situation has arisen out of the Mexican Presidential election.

Following the scrutiny of the votes cast last Sunday, General Avila Camacho claims an overwhelming majority throughout the Republic, while his opponent, General Juan Almazan, is equally certain that he has been victorious.

In the ordinary course of events the official result would be announced on September 1 in the Chamber of Deputies, where a special commission would be charged with a final revision of the votes.

An advertisement has, however, been published by the entire Press to the effect that General Almazan, convinced that he has been legally elected, intends to establish his own Congress, and has already issued 150 credentials for the deputies.

The notice adds that that body will meet at a place yet to be announced to declare General Almazan President.

The latter will then take the oath of office regardless of what the Camacho party may do in the official chamber.

The situation has fearsome possibilities, and unless President Cardenas finds some way of straightening out the matter Mexico may have another upheaval.

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MEXICO CITY, Friday.

Feeling is running so high among partisans of the Presidential candidates, for which Mexicans voted last Sunday, that an extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress has been summoned for July 25, instead of September 1, the date of the regular session for the announcement of ballot results.

Anglo-Japanese Talks

"Satisfactory Progress" Reported

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Friday.

"Satisfactory progress" is being made in the negotiations between Britain and Japan concerning supplies to China through Burma. This was stated by the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman, following a two-hour interview between Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador, and Mr. Arita, the Japanese Foreign Minister, this afternoon.

It was hoped to issue a fuller statement shortly, the spokesman added.

At an interview earlier to-day he was questioned about reports of consultation between Great Britain and the United States regarding the Burma route. He replied that it was up to the two countries to decide whether consultation should take place. Japan had nothing to do with the matter, about which she was "not particular."

Asked whether the position regarding the stoppage of supplies through French Indo-China was satisfactory, the spokesman said everything was going very smoothly, and the Japanese inspectorate investigating conditions on the spot was functioning satisfactorily, with the full co-operation of the French authorities.

The despatch of another Japanese inspectorate, this time to the French-leased territory of Kwang Chow-Wan, in South China, some 250 miles south-west of Hong Kong, was announced in an official communiqué by the naval section of the Japanese Imperial Headquarters to-day.

The communiqué said the Japanese Navy had decided to send ten inspectors "to observe the actual conditions of the French stoppage of the transportation of material and goods to the Chiang Kai-Shek régime through Kwang Chow-Wan."

It was learned in London last night that Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador in Tokyo, has had a further conversation with Mr. Arita, the Japanese Foreign Secretary, on the question of supplies to China via Burma.

A full report of the conversation has not yet reached London, but it is understood that the discussions are likely to continue.

PATROL YACHT SUNK IN BOMBING ATTACK

H.M. Patrol Yacht, Warrior 2—Captain A. E. Johnston, R.N.—sank as the result of an enemy bombing attack in the English Channel on Thursday, a British Admiralty communiqué stated last night.

"One rating was killed, and his next-of-kin has been informed.

"The remainder of the crew have been landed safely."

Warrior II., according to the Yachting Register of 1939, was a twin screw vessel, 530 tons net, belonging to Southampton and owned by the Rev. M. Hoyes.

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE IN MADRID

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MADRID, Friday.

Mr. William C. Bullitt, American Ambassador to France, looking thinner but cheerful, arrived in Madrid to-day by 'plane from Barcelona.

Mr. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jun., Ambassador to Poland, is on his way from San Sebastian to confer with Mr. Bullitt and Mr. A. W. Weddell, American Ambassador to Spain.

£24,250,000 CONTRACTS FOR U.S. NAVY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Friday.

The Navy Department, it is announced, has awarded record peace-time contracts, totalling $137,000,000 (about £24,250,000), as part of its programme to build up the Pacific and Atlantic Fleets.

BRITAIN DESTROYS 11 GERMAN 'PLANES

Six Shot Down During Attack on a Convoy

MANY DEAD IN RAID ON SCOTTISH PORT

ELEVEN German bombers were destroyed in yesterday's air raids on Britain. Six of these were shot down during an attack on a convoy off the South-East coast, one on the outskirts of a Scottish port, and two off the South-East coast.

It is now reported that during Thursday's fighting around the coasts twenty-three German aircraft were destroyed.

Three anti-aircraft guns were responsible for the shooting down of three machines during the fighting over the South-East coast on Thursday.

When a town in the North-East of Scotland was bombed yesterday several people lost their lives, including a lorry-driver, who was sheltering under his horse. The horse also was killed.

Last night's British Air Ministry communiqué, in a review of the operations over Britain and of the work of the Royal Air Force on the Continent, stated:—

"Last night Royal Air Force bombers attacked enemy aerodromes in Holland, and munition works, blast furnaces and other objectives in Germany.

"Three of our aircraft are missing.

"In the course of reconnaissance over Boulogne yesterday aircraft of the Coastal Command bombed a concentration of barges, machine-gunned enemy flying-boats moored in the harbour, and damaged lock gates.

"This morning, in an attack on a convoy off the South-East coast, six German aircraft were destroyed and others damaged by British fighters.

"This afternoon three other bombers were brought down, one on the outskirts of a Scottish port, and two others off the South-East coast. Two of these were destroyed by fighters, the other by A.A. fire.

"In all, to-day, ten enemy bombers have been destroyed, including a Heinkel, which was shot down into the sea by an Anson aircraft of the Coastal Command.

"Two of our fighters are missing."

Later last night it was announced that eleven aeroplanes had been shot down during the day.

"It is now confirmed that in the engagements that took place round our coasts yesterday a total of twenty-three German aircraft were destroyed."

BOMB HAVOC IN A TOWN

Several people were killed in a raid on a North-East Scottish town yesterday. They included some workmen in a building and a lorry driver who was sheltering under his horse, which was also killed. Several people standing in a doorway were injured.

When two bombs fell in a granite yard one wrecked the interior, and the manager was seriously injured.

An Air Ministry and Home Security communiqué stated yesterday that a German bomber, flying at a great height, dropped a number of bombs, which fell in various parts of a town on the north-east coast of Scotland yesterday afternoon. Damage was caused, and a number of persons were killed and injured.

The bomber was intercepted by fighters of the Royal Air Force and shot down in the outskirts of the town.

DIVE FROM THE CLOUDS

A German 'plane dived out of the clouds over a Welsh district yesterday evening, and immediately afterwards a British machine went in pursuit.

The German dropped a few bombs, two of which fell in water, another landed in a field, and windows of nearby houses were broken. No damage was reported and there were no casualties.

THREE GUNS—THREE 'PLANES

Crews of three different A.A. guns on the south coast of Britain shared the credit of shooting down the three German aircraft which were destroyed by A.A. fire in Thursday's raids, states the Air Ministry News Services.

A Heinkel 11 was hit when it was flying low in a shallow dive. Six or seven shells were enough to bring it down. As it hit the ground the Heinkel exploded with a great flash.

The second bomber was flying relatively high when A.A. shells began to burst round it. After being hit it dived vertically into the sea.

The third aircraft which the guns brought down was a Messerschmitt 110 fighter.

"As the enemy aircraft came in to attack," one of the gunners said, "they split up so we all had our chance."

FIGHT 6,000 FEET UP

ANSON PUTS DOWN A HEINKEL

The story of a fight between an Anson reconnaissance 'plane of the Costal Command and a Heinkel, which ended in the German 'plane being brought down into the sea, is told by the Air Ministry News Service last night.

The Anson, on convoy duty, was in the locality of a battle between Heinkel bombers and British Spitfires.

"Not content with a back seat, the Anson pilot cut off one of the Heinkels. While escorting the convoy he sighted three Heinkel 110's preparing to attack the ships. He climbed to intercept the bombers, and at 6,000 feet he found six more Heinkels.

"Then the Spitfires appeared. The Heinkels pursued by the British fighters, sped past the Anson at 100 m.p.h. more than its maximum speed.

The Anson fastened on to one of the German bombers. This is what the pilot reported:—

"I did not like the idea of this Heinkel getting away. I dived to the attack and the Heinkel turned and came at me head-on. I let go with my front gun as we closed. A collision seemed imminent, but at the last moment the German swerved swiftly to starboard.

"My turret gunner got him on the beam, and suddenly the Heinkel pancaked on to the sea. One of the crew climbed out on to the water and the bomber sank in a few moments.

"We guided a British ship to the crew's rescue and continued our watch over the convoy."

GREAT DAY FOR HURRICANES

HOW THEY SAVED SHIPPING

A description of yesterday's fighting, issued last night, stated:—

"The first victory of the day was won by six Hurricanes patrolling early this morning off the East Anglia coast. They saved merchant ships from an attack by ten Heinkels. Four of the Heinkels, shattered by the eight-gun Hurricanes, crashed into the sea. The other six were driven off before they could damage the ships.

A little later two Dornier 17's tried to attack the convoy. A single Hurricane pilot from the same section shot down one and damaged the other.

Three Dorner 17's which attacked shipping further south were also unlucky. A Wing Commander in a Hurricane sent one down in flames. His own aircraft was hit in several places, but he managed to land safely.

Around midday Heinkels were being attacked both in the North of Scotland and over the South coast of England. Spitfires shot down a Heinkel 111 over Aberdeenshire. Anti-aircraft gunners on the South coast got another Heinkel. It crashed on land.

7,000 FEET UP

Between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon Hurricanes sighted a Heinkel 111 flying north at 7,000 feet. As they attacked it jettisoned its bombs over the sea. One Hurricane pilot put in a long burst on it. Then there was an explosion in the Heinkel. Bits and pieces were flying off it all over the place. Smoke was coming from it. The pilot had flattened out and was evidently looking for somewhere to get down.

He landed in a flat grass field with only one wheel of his undercarriage down.

The last German bomber, a U 88, also a shipping raider, was claimed by Hurricanes off the Hampshire coast later in the afternoon. It was intercepted under a bank of low clouds and crashed into the sea.

Two of our fighters were lost during the day.

CHILDREN WATCH AIR FIGHT

Children returning from school in a 'bus had the thrill of their lives yesterday when they witnessed a fight to the death between a Hurricane and a Heinkel.

One of the boys, aged 13, stated:—"I saw three Hurricanes and the German machine. One of the Hurricanes tackled the Heinkel and got damaged, because I saw a thin issue of smoke coming from the rear. The Hurricane, however, made a swoop downwards towards the Heinkel and sent out a lot of machine-gun firing which completely crippled the rudder of the German machine, which then seemed to fall in bits.

"The front part of the Heinkel fell down behind a hill at a terrific speed.

"The other two Hurricanes seemed to prevent the Heinkel from escaping, and making sure that the Hurricane, which had been badly crippled, and the Heinkel would have it out between themselves. The Hurricane won. It was a great thrill for us."

MALTA RAIDERS DRIVEN OFF

MALTA, Friday.

R.A.F. fighters drove off Italian aircraft that were approaching Malta shortly after 4 p.m. to-day. No bombs were dropped.

One enemy machine, it is reported, was damaged, and unlikely to reach its base.

Malta had previously been free from raids.

R.A.F. FLY DEEP INTO GERMANY

ONE HUNDRED BOMBS ON AN AIR BASE

Aerodromes in Holland, used as bases for German raids on Britain, were attacked and extensively damaged on Thursday night by heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force, states the British Air Ministry News Service; other British night raiders penetrated deep into Germany.

Rotterdam's principal airport at Waalhaven was repeatedly bombed in a series of attacks which lasted for nearly two hours. Hits were made on many parts of the aerodrome with high explosive bombs, and several fires were started.

At Schipol aerodrome, on the outskirts of Amsterdam, bombs struck the runways and exploded among the airport buildings.

More than a hundred high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on the air base at Texel. At Oostvoorne, on the Dutch mainland, a searchlight battery was extinguished when a salvo of heavy bombs burst close by. Bombs were also dropped on the aerodrome at Haamstaade, on the island of Schouwen.

FLYING IN SNOWSTORM

Other sections of the night raiding force attacked military objectives inside Germany and damaged widely dispersed targets, despite heavy storms of rain, hail, and snow, and severe icing conditions. Munition works at Ludwigshaven and near Cologne were located and bombed by the light of parachute flares.

Blast furnaces at Siegburg, fourteen miles from Cologne, were attacked with heavy calibre bombs; and at Mutterstadt, to the west of Ludwigshaven, a series of explosions, followed by an outbreak of fire, resulted from a low-level attack on a large factory. In a raid on the docks at Bremen, carried out shortly after midnight, buildings were hit and a large fire started. The aircraft responsible for this attack had part of one airscrew shot off by A.A. fire, but was able to complete its task and return safely.

SERIES OF EXPLOSIONS

Another night raider, penetrating 300 miles into enemy territory, successfully attacked a large factory building on the fringe of Strasbourg, in Southern Germany. Salvos of bombs straddled the target, and after two large warehouses had been hit, the raider's crew watched a continuous series of explosions occurring on the ground below.

Incendiary bombs started several fires, which were soon burning fiercely; and one great blaze was still plainly visible when the aircraft was 60 miles on his homeward course.

70 FLIGHTS OVER ITALIAN TERRITORY

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE BY R.A.F.

Press Association War Special.

ADEN, Friday.

During the first month's operations aircraft of the Aden Command flew over Italian territory on more than seventy occasions. They engaged in much low-level and dive-bombing, and did extensive damage to aircraft, petrol dumps, munition stores, hangars and military buildings.

All this was achieved with the loss of only one 'plane.

The first reconnaissance flight was made over Italian territory on June 11, less than twenty-four hours after Mussolini had announced Italy's entry into the war.

The next day two effective raids were carried out, and considerable military damage was done. By contrast, the three Italian raids on Aden have been singularly ineffective.

Bombing was from very high altitudes, and no military damage was done.

Italian losses amount to, at least, 20 'planes.

ITALIANS ADMIT SPEED OF R.A.F.

ROME, Friday.

Claiming that three British fighters were shot down by Italian bombers during a raid on Malta on Wednesday, the official Italian News Agency to-night adds this comment:—

"This success deserves to be emphasised, as the 'planes shot down were very fast and powerfully armed."

It was announced in Malta on Wednesday night that three Italian bombers were brought down by anti-aircraft fire and British fighters during a raid on the island that day. A fourth machine was so badly damaged that it was not likely to reach its base.

No British loss was reported.—Press Association War Special.

OBITUARY

CAPTAIN HUBERT PRESTON

The death occurred yesterday of Captain the Hon. Hubert Anthony John Preston, M.C., son of the fourteenth Viscount Gormanston, at Marlfield, Cabinteely, Co. Dublin.

Captain Preston, who was aged 55, served during the Great War in the 18th Royal Irish Regiment, receiving the Military Cross and being three times mentioned in despatches. He was twice wounded.

He was educated at the Oratory School, Birmingham, and shortly after leaving there went to the Argentine, where he farmed for seven years. He then returned during the war years. While in France he was severely gassed, and this seriously affected his health in later years, when he frequently visited Tangier to benefit from the climate.

He was keen on hunting and racing, and rode with the Meath and the Louth.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE NORTH

From Our Correspondent.

BELFAST, Friday.

The Northern Minister of Labour (Mr. John F. Gordon), in a statement to-day replies to criticisms made in the Northern Parliament, and elsewhere, upon the fact that the number of unemployed in the North is now higher than at the commencement of the war. He states that the number of men registered as unemployed in Northern Ireland is approximately 40,000. Of these not more than 25,000 are physically fit.

It is not possible for the Ministry to order men to undertake such work as filling sandbags, digging trenches, erecting road obstructions, and so on, as a condition of the continued receipt of unemployment pay. Such work can be undertaken, of course, by the military authorities with the labour at their disposal, but if men are engaged on such work in a civilian capacity they must be paid the recognised rates of wages.

WILL BRITAIN BE ATTACKED?

POSSIBLE GERMAN PLAN

RECENT MILITARY EVENTS

By Our Military Correspondent.

A REPORT has just come from Rumania to the effect that Germany does not intend to attack Britain directly at the moment; but rather to organise a sort of modern "Continental System" against her. The report, being German-inspired, may be designed with a view to lulling Britain into a false sense of security. On the other hand, it may be a plain statement of fact. At all events, the progress of the war since the French collapse fits in well enough with this latter explanation. It is, accordingly, worth our while analysing recent military events in the more particularly British theatre of operations.

As regards actual invasion moves, the only rumour is the "glider" one from a Swedish source. This is to the effect that trains of gliders—each containing a squad—to be towed by aircraft, are being prepared with a view to flying in greater numbers of men and greater quantities of material. This device has already been employed at least once—in Belgium some two months ago. It has the advantage that a glider, once the tow is cast off does not need as extensive a landing ground as a 'plane—and if smashed up entails a far less important loss. Some additional colour is given to the rumour by reason of the fact that "glide-bombing" has made its appearance. The bomber approaches at a great height, shuts off his engine, and slides down silently, in order to evade A.A. defences, before getting to close quarters.

SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN

This, however, is only a possibility, so far. The actual intensification of effort has taken only the forms of heavier submarine and aerial effort. It was only natural that the submarine campaign should be intensified—for two quite obvious reasons. Far more submarines are available since the entry of Italy into the war; appreciably fewer anti-submarine craft are operating since the immobilisation of the French Navy. In the circumstances, it would not be surprising to find sinkings very materially increased: yet any figures claimed by Germany are far below those of the heavy months in the last war; and from now on, with shortening daylight, they are unlikely to increase. Nor has there, up to now, been any attempt to supplement their attack by surface raiders.

And so, by a process of elimination, we come to find that just now it is the German aerial arm that is responsible for the main effort. Broadly speaking, all its work is connected with blockade activity, in one way or another. Any towns bombed have been coast towns—mainly on the South and East coasts. Sometimes naval harbours have been attacked, sometimes mercantile ports: but always it was some marine interest that was struck at. One area that has received particular attention is the Bristol Channel. It is interesting, by the way, to note how the British and Germans differ in their method of narrating attacks: the former indicate only the general area, the latter mention specific localities. "South-West England," in the context, includes Milford Haven.

ATTACKS ON CONVOYS

But by far the most interesting aspect of this air-blockade is afforded by the attacks on convoys of merchantmen. A number of these have taken place; and they have been made in great strength and pressed with method and determination. That on July 10th is typical, the convoy being attacked by waves of 'planes. In face of such attacks it is inevitable that losses should be incurred—both among the merchantmen and the escorting men-of-war. But the only important question on this score is whether or not the losses are crippling—either in cargo ships or warships. Crippling losses in either sort would be decisive; but there appears to be no sign of such at present.

The fact is that some years ago the British Admiralty foresaw the need of special A.A. escort ships. Two classes were developed, an oceanic and a coastwise. The former was composed of obsolescent light cruisers, re-armed so that all their guns could fire skywards; and they have as many as 10 4-in. A.A. pieces, as well as automatic armament. They are still knots faster than the ordinary liner. The coastal boats were specially built. They are about the size of a small destroyer, but much slower—19 knots or so. They have a very shallow draught—only 8 feet—and the terrific A.A. battery, for their tonnage, of eight 4-in. guns. In addition, convoys can also be met by their own aircraft, and accompanied up-Channel for the entire 300 miles—being relayed from one friendly formation to another all along.

AIR POWER

In fact, the really remarkable thing is—not that convoys are being heavily attacked in the Channel, nor that they are suffering fairly serious loss—but that they are still using the Channel at all. It certainly does appear to indicate that air power—unless quite overwhelming—has not yet the last word in the argument. As far as we can gather, convoys continue to use the Channel—dropping the respective quotas, if need be, at Falmouth, Plymouth, Portland, Southampton—the main bodies holding on.

Nor is this altogether surprising. The convoy of to-day is, to all intents and purposes, a completely naval affair. It is not at all the tentative, rather amateurish business of 1917. Every merchant captain has been handling his ship in convoy for nearly eleven months. A great number have done short courses at naval centres in the theory as well. There is no lack of signallers and steersmen, while the engine-room staffs are equally well schooled. And, of course, the escort duty is now down in the bones of the warship personnel. From the first they regarded it as their main function anyhow. The only new problem was how to fit on the A.A. additions. At least a quite respectable effort in this direction is being made.

AUCTION SALES

MESSRS. BATTERSBY AND CO.

Messrs. Battersby and Co. announce the following sales in our auction columns to-day. On Tuesday next at 12 o'clock they will offer for sale at the premises, 15-16 Old Kilmainham, very extensive freehold premises, builder's yard, workshops, etc., and immediately afterwards they will sell the entire valuable plant, machinery, tools, fittings, equipments, stock-in-trade, etc. On Tuesday, the 23rd instant, and following day, they will sell by auction at 12 o'clock at 23 Merrion square the contents of the residence, comprising antique and reproduction furniture, oil paintings, Erard piano, and old Irish silver and Sheffield plate. Full details in our advertisement columns.

GERMAN REPORT ON RECENT FIGHTING

FIGURES DENIED IN BRITAIN

BERLIN, Friday.

To-day's German High Command communiqué states:—

"On July 11 squadrons of fighters and dive-bombers attacked aerodromes, ports, and armament plants in the south and centre of England, as well as ships off the east and south coasts of England. In the harbours of Plymouth and Lowestoft port equipment was hit by bombs. In Portsmouth and the industrial factories at Burton-on-Trent big fires were caused by bombs.

"In the Channel, one tanker of 15,000 tons and four merchantmen totalling 15,000 tons, were sunk. Nine other merchantmen were heavily damaged by direct hits with bombs. In the course of these attacks, our fighters and dive-bombers, as well as our fighters and destroyer 'planes, shot down several enemy fighters.

"Enemy bombing in Western Germany was small, and caused no damage. The total losses of the enemy yesterday amounted to thirteen 'planes, three of which were brought down by anti-aircraft fire.

"Seven of our 'planes are missing.

"TRADE WAR"

"The successes of the Navy and Air Force in the trade war have reached a degree where its effect is making itself felt in England. Up to July 8, 1940, the following tonnage has been sunk:—

"A—Through torpedo hits and successful mining by our U-boats, 1,920,439 tons. B—Through surface craft and other naval war arms, 1,362,461 tons. C—Through attacks from the air, 1,046,313 tons. This makes a total of 4,329,213 tons of enemy commercial shipping, or shipping useful to the enemy, sunk since the outbreak of war.

"To the number of ships sunk must be added at least 300 ships damaged mostly through action of our Air Force. Most of them were hit so heavily that they can no longer be used, or will be out of action for months owing to the necessary repairs."

BRITISH REPLY

The Press Association learns in authoritative quarters that the German figure of 4,329,213 tons for British shipping sunk is more than four times the total of British losses up to July 1. Germany has lost about 877,000 tons of merchant shipping, and Italy about 244,000 tons.

This totals 1,121,000 tons of enemy merchant shipping captured, scuttled or sunk, or more than the total shipping losses from the outbreak of war to July 1.—(Press Association War Special.)

GIANT SECRET U.S. MILITARY LORRY

CAN CARRY TWO 6-INCH GUNS

From Reuter's Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Friday.

The existence of a new giant secret military lorry, capable of carrying two 6-inch guns, was revealed to-day when a fire of suspicious origin broke out at the place where the lorry has been undergoing extensive tests by Army engineers for the past four months.

According to a spokesman of the company which is manufacturing the lorry, it is driven by a marine Diesel engine, and is capable of a speed of 65 miles per hour.

It is driven by twelve rear wheels, and can carry a 90-ton load. It is as wide as an ordinary street. The lorry was not touched by the fire.

CHILDREN SEE SUBMARINE CHASE

Press Association War Special.

HALIFAX (NOVA SCOTIA), Friday.

A passenger on board one of the two liners, which brought nearly two thousand children from the British Isles to-day, reported that a submarine was attacked during the voyage, though naval sources in Ottawa state that they have no knowledge of the incident. He said that the submarine was sighted by a convoying 'plane, whereupon a British warship sped to the scene and dropped depth charges. Later oil patches were seen on the surface.

Other passengers reported sighting several submarines.

Fire from an escorting warship was believed to have been responsible for sinking one when their liner was two days out, they said.

The other submarines were apparently frightened by depth charges.

BRITISH COASTAL VESSELS TO BE IMMOBILISED

The British Admiralty, it was announced last night, have made an order requiring vessels on the coasts of the United Kingdom either to be immobilised entirely or rendered incapable of use if left unattended, on the East and South coasts from Berwick to the boundary of Dorset and Devonshire. Small passenger vessels and all private and pleasure craft are, wherever possible, to be beached and removed to a distance from the water.

In the same area all other vessels, whenever they are left unattended, are either to be dismantled or else fitted with a locking device sufficiently to render the craft incapable of use. This rule applies to all vessels whatsoever over the remaining part of the coasts of the United Kingdom whenever they are left unattended.

HOLIDAY CRUISE OFFER

Thinking of a cruising holiday this year? Yes, you can cruise in comfort and safety, and at no expense to yourself either, if you are the fortunate winner of the easy summer holiday crossword which appears elsewhere in this issue. The first prize is an eight-day cruise on the Shannon for two, with £10 in cash. It includes first-class accommodation in a luxurious motor yacht, available every Saturday up to September 28th, covering Athlone, Banagher, Portumna, Lough Derg, Clanricarde Castle, Mount Shannon, Holy Island, Killaloe, Clonmacnoise, etc. A cash prize of £25 is available for those who prefer it, and there are also unlimited consolation awards for runners-up.

Whether you are fortunate or not you will find the crossword simple and entertaining. You can fill in one square for 2d. or have four chances for 6d. Entries must be in by Saturday, July 20th.

TAXI-DRIVER SENTENCED

CONSPIRACY TO MURDER JUSTICE

SEVEN YEARS' PENAL SERVITUDE

DENIS O'NEILL, thirty-four years old taxi driver, of Bachelor's quay, Cork, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude by the Special Criminal Court in Dublin yesterday for conspiring, with a person or persons not in custody, to murder District Justice D. B. Sullivan at his home, Carrigbrennan House, Little Island, Cork, on the morning of April 17th last. He was found not guilty on charges of attempted murder, possession of firearms without a certificate, and possession of firearms with intent.

Application for leave to appeal was refused.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. G. D. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. D. O'Donovan, Chief State Solicitor's office) prosecuted, and Mr. G. Y. Goldberg, solicitor, Cork, defended.

Continuing his evidence from the previous day, a police officer said that O'Neill when making his statement asked to have included in it that he was not a member of any illegal organisation. When charged with the offence he replied: "I had neither hand, act nor part in it."

Cross-examined, the officer said that he had investigated a statement about the suspension of O'Neill's driving licence by District Justice Sullivan, and he was satisfied that in point of fact O'Neill continued to drive his motor car in pursuance of an order made by the District Justice pending the decision of the Circuit Judge on appeal.

Mr. Goldberg—So that he did not lose a day's work, and, so far from being revengeful towards the District Justice, he should have been grateful to him?—One would expect so.

ACCUSED MAN'S EVIDENCE

O'Neill, in evidence, said that early in the morning of the 17th three men stopped his taxi and asked him to take them to Little Island Golf Club. Outside the city one of the men, who was in the front seat with him, told him to drive where he was told. They went up an avenue to a house. One of the men got out. A window of the house was opened and a voice said: "What do you want; who is there?" Three shots were fired, and the men told him to start the engine. He did so, but the taxi would not move as it was stuck. They took him out of the car, and he was forced to walk with them over fields to a car, in which they drove all night. Before they let him out one of the men told him not to report the incident—that if he did he would be shot. A bandage which had been placed over his eyes was removed and he went to the barracks.

Asked if he ever had been a member of an illegal organisation, O'Neill replied: "Never in my life." He had no reason to bear any malice against District Justice Sullivan, and it must have been a coincidence that his taxi was taken by the men that night.

EVIDENCE FOR DEFENCE

Richard Kelleher, called for the defence, said that he was an internee in Cork Jail, and was informed by the President of the Court that he need not answer any question that might incriminate him.

In evidence Kelleher said that he saw O'Neill at about 10 o'clock on the night of the 16th, and was with him until about 2.30 the next morning, during which they drank in several public-houses. He saw three men approach the taxi, and O'Neill said: "This looks like a job." He heard the three men bargaining with O'Neill, and then saw them get into the taxi.

When he went home his wife told him that two detectives had been to the house, so he went "on the run," and was "on the run" until he was arrested and interned. His going "on the run" had not, he said, anything to do with the shooting at District Justice Sullivan's house.

Cross-examined, he said that he had been at that time a member of an organisation.

Mr. Murnaghan—Would you be surprised to know that your finger-prints were found on O'Neill's car?—I pushed his taxi that night at the taxi rank.

The Court adjourned until Tuesday.

GRASS FOR PIGS

MAKING GOOD THE MEAL RATION

DURING the summer pastures will provide a comparatively cheap substitute for part of the pigs' meal rations. Observations at Wye College indicate that even poor pasture will provide the greater part of the ration of in-pig or fattening sows if they are given sufficient range.

The grazing from poor pasture will replace one-third of the meal ration of a nursing sow. A convenient standard is to feed a sow ¾lb. of meal per day for each pig in her litter. The grazing from good pasture (five ewe land) will replace more than half the meal ration on such land; a convenient standard is to feed a half-pound of meal per day for each pig in the litter (i.e., 4lb. to a sow nursing eight pigs).

The grazing from poor grassland will replace about one quarter of the meal ration of store pigs, but the grass obtained from good grassland will replace half of the meal ration.

Practically all mixtures which give satisfactory results indoors will give slightly better results with grazing pigs, and, if desirable, swill may be worked into the ration. Grass can replace the millers' offals in the ration. Satisfactory results have been obtained with grazing stores that received a mixture consisting of 92½ per cent. cereal meals, plus 7½ per cent. protein concentrate. This mixture is also being tested with nursing sows as a supplement to grass, and has given satisfactory results to date.

Grass Cuttings

A sow will eat 20-24lb. of young grass per day, but grass that is long enough to cut by scythe and collect by hand has become too old and fibrous for pigs to eat in such large quantities. Of such coarse grass a sow will eat only 10-12lb. Young grass can best be obtained by using a lawn mower, but these machines will only work on a reasonably level surface. A ration of 20-24lb. of lawn mowings per day will replace one-third of the meal ration. During the past two summers, an area of half an acre of poor grassland has provided the cuttings required by 14 sows farrowing at intervals during the summer. On many farms there are lawns which, if manured, watered, and cut a strip at a time, would provide grass cuttings for a considerable number of sows and save during the summer months an appreciable quantity of meal.

MORE SWEDISH PULP FOR GERMANY

Swedish pulp exports to Germany are to be increased by 60 per cent. and paper export by 40 per cent. under the new commercial agreement signed this week between the two countries, according to the German radio.

Germany, on the other hand, is to increase her shipments of coal and coke to Sweden.—(Reuter.)

Now For YOUR HOLIDAYS

More than ever, in these troubled times, your annual holiday is a vital necessity. For your health's sake you need a break from everyday toil, a change from everyday surroundings. Ensure an enjoyable holiday by planning it NOW. You will find that Ireland Offers a surprising variety of resorts, and splendid value in health, sport, comfort, and holiday happiness. Golf and other sports for the grown ups; safe bathing beaches for the children, pleasant rambles and excursions, various amusements and pastimes for holiday-makers of all categories. Or if yours must be an angling holiday your opportunities are simply unlimited, your enjoyment assured.

EAST COAST

Ireland's east coast is the sunniest and driest region North and South of Dublin, within reach of the city's gaiety and entertainment, are some of Ireland's most favoured resorts.

Northward lies the golden chain of sandy beaches from Dublin Bay past Meath to Carlingford Lough in Louth. Behind this coast stretch the historic Boyne Valley and the diversified landscapes of Cavan, Monaghan and the Westmeath lakelands. Southward sweeps the other shore of Dublin Bay past Dun Laoghaire to Killiney, linking up with superbly situated Bray and the silver strands, along the coast of Wicklow and Wexford to Rosslare. Beyond the hills lie the green plains of Kildare, historic Laoighis, and the valleys of the Slaney, Barrow, and the Nore in County Kilkenny.

SOUTH COAST

Fronting the Atlantic Ocean, enjoying a mild, genial climate, the South Coast of Ireland makes an immediate and potent appeal. Along that beautiful coast from Waterford to Cork and Kerry, there are gay, crowded resorts, secluded creeks and coves, sheltered places where the myrtle and the oleander freely blossom.

As a change from coastal holidays you can explore the lovely valleys of the Suir and Blackwater, the golden vales of Limerick and Tipperary, the mountain recesses of Cork and Kerry, and of course, the Lakes of Killarney. Everywhere there is beauty and interest, a fine variety of contour and colour which packs every excursion with thrills.

WEST COAST

Clare, Galway, Connemara, Mayo, Sligo, Leitrim, Donegal—these spell grandeur, the natural grandeur of the western coast, which experienced travellers declare to be unrivalled in Europe. Rugged promontories, towering cliffs, island-studded bays, golden beaches backed by prodigious mountains—these combine to make the extraordinary western scene. Add to this the countless lakes and rivers, most of them renowned for salmon, sea and brown trout.

For a "different" kind of holiday visit colourful Connemara and Donegal, storehouses of Ireland's language, traditions and culture; rejuvenate in the seasides and spas of Clare; enjoy the glories of Mayo's bays, lakes and mountains; the glamour of Achill Island; the unbelievable beauties of Sligo and Leitrim, and the storied Shannon country of Offaly, Longford and Roscommon.

A Sportsman's Review

A Successor to Bobby Jones?: Lawson Little's Claims: An Incomparable Match-player

By PAUL DENIS

Eight Glorious Years

I CAME across a most interesting article in an American weekly magazine a few days ago, which was entitled: "There will never be another Jones." The author, a great authority on golf, was the Boswell to Bobby Jones's Dr. Johnson in the years of the Atalanta man's world fame, and the article makes a very impressive claim that never again will such a golf genius as Bobby Jones grace this planet. For eight years Jones dominated world golf. He won the American Open title in 1923, 1926, 1929 and 1930, and he was runner-up on at least two other occasions. The American Amateur fell to him in 1924, 1925, 1927, 1928 and 1930, and he was runner-up in 1919 and 1926. Therefore, in American golf, which was vastly superior at that time to British golf, he won a major championship each year over a period of eight years. Now, to turn to Britain. He was Open champion in 1926, 1927 and 1930, and Amateur champion in the latter. I certainly do not think his record will ever be touched, especially his feat in winding-up his astounding career with the "grand slam" in 1930, capturing the British and American Open and Amateur championships. Having no more worlds to conquer, he retired from competitive golf, the champion of champions.

Lawson Little's Feats

However, it is still a little early, to my mind, to claim Jones as incomparable until the career of W. Lawson Little is drawing to a close—and at present it is only at its height. In 1934 Little came to England on the American Walker Cup team. In the top foursome he and Johnny Goodman beat Cyril Tolly and Roger Wethered 8 and 6, and in the singles he beat Wethered 7 and 5. He fairly carved his way through the amateur championship at Prestwich, and in the final destroyed the Scottish artisan, J. Wallace, by the record margin of 14 up and 13 to play. His approximate figures for the first 18 holes were 66—the finest golf ever seen in the amateur final. He returned to the States on top of the world and won the American amateur, beating D. Goldman in the final by 8 and 7. Back to England in the following year, he had a majestic progress through to the final of the amateur, but at that stage he had a desperate battle with Dr. William Tweddell, winning on the last green in one of golf's historic encounters. Unshaken by that, he retained his American title, beating Walter Emery in the final, and stood out as unquestionably the finest amateur player in the world. Naturally enough, there were tempting offers to turn professional and Little abandoned his amateur status in 1936.

The Game is Tougher Now

The writer makes one important point about Jones—the scores with which he won his open championships would hardly put him into the first six nowadays. The implements for playing the game have improved so much in the last ten years that it now takes something in the region of an average of seventy over 72 holes to win a major stroke event. Competition also is keener nowadays, for in the States there are simply dozens of young professionals who are capable of staggering figures every so often. The newest sensation there, Jimmy Demaret, of Texas, who won seven major events in eleven starts, reeled off figures which made Jones's look almost insignificant. It is very difficult for one man to get his head above the crowd of great players in the States at present, and it is quite on the cards that Demaret will return to comparative obscurity after his "annus mirabilis," whereas the big figures of the 1920-30 period, men like Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Bobby Cruickshank and others, could never shake off Jones. In fact, they seem to have acquired a distinct inferiority complex about him.

New Open Champion

He did not immediately start by outpacing his professional rivals, but he won the Canadian Open from a powerful field of Americans with the fantastic score of 271 for 72 holes. This, I fancy, is the lowest aggregate ever returned in a big championship. From that time Little's progress came to an end for three years. Few, if any, of the big plums fell to him, but he was still playing fine golf, and a couple of weeks ago he came back to the top with a bang, winning the American Open after a tie with Gene Sarazen. They both returned 287, but on the play-off Little had a 70 against his rival's 73. That last score sums up Little's peculiar genius—he is the essence of determination when there is a chance of victory.

Where Little Excels Jones

In one respect he has proved himself superior to Jones—in his ability to win matches over 18 holes. That was the latter's Achilles Heel. When Jones was winning his amateur titles in America there was a qualifying competition, the leading 32 played off over 36 holes, and Jones was almost unbeatable in a match over 36 holes. He was never happy over the shorter distance, which accounts for his lack of success in the British Amateur. Even when he did win it in 1930, he was twice on the edge of defeat at the hands of George Voigt, a fellow-countryman, and Cyril Tolley. Little, a big powerful fellow of the bulldog type, was a fighter to the core, and had he remained an amateur, would possibly have set up a tremendous record as a match-winner. He was the ideal amateur golfer; having tasted success in the American Open he may proceed to emulate his world-famous predecessor.

DUTCHMEN FOR MILITARY SERVICE

EQUIPMENT FROM AMERICA

All Dutchmen in Great Britain between the ages of 20 and 35 who had to register for military service will shortly be called up for training.

The Dutch military authorities have already ordered the most modern military equipment from America.

The Dutch troops will be clad in British battle-dress, with an orange line and the word "Netherlands" on the sleeve. This is being done to prevent the confusion that might be caused by uniforms not familiar to the public.—(P.A. War Special).

A 600 MILES AN HOUR DIVE

NEW 'PLANE FOR BRITAIN TESTED

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Friday.

The modified type of the American pursuit 'plane for which the British Purchasing Commission has placed large orders, has been taken into a power dive by an English test pilot at 600 miles an hour.

The pilot found it "very steady," with an absence of the wing flutter which appeared in similar tests of other 'planes. It was superior to any German 'plane now in use, he declared. Production is just getting under way.

ANTI-BLAST CURTAINS

Another A.R.P. idea is a new kind of net material that can be glued to the window panes of houses to prevent glass splintering. The advantage is—it looks like ordinary curtains from the outside and does away with the chess-board effect of strips of sticky paper. Nor does it obscure the light.

MAN WOUNDED AT TERENURE

At Terenure, Dublin, last night, a young man, Michael Conway, received a slight flesh wound while resisting arrest. He has been detained.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE

GATEAU SANS-GÊNE

Ingredients: Sponge Foundation:—3 eggs, 3 ozs. castor sugar, 2ozs. butter or margarine, 3ozs. plain flour, 1oz. milled nuts, 1 dessertspoonful coffee essence (size of tin—7 inches diameter, 1½ inches deep). Crême:—1 large egg, 2½ozs. castor sugar, 4ozs. butter or margarine, 1 teaspoonful coffee essence. Praline:—1oz nuts, 1oz. sugar. Cigarette Mixture:—1 small white of egg, 2ozs. castor sugar, 1oz. flour, 1oz. butter or margarine.

To make the Sponge Foundation, beat the eggs, add the sugar, and beat together, with the bowl placed over a pan of hot water, until the mixture is thick. Remove from the heat, work the butter in a warm place until liquid, but not hot, add to the beaten eggs and sugar with the sieved flour, nuts and coffee essence. Bake in the tin (which should be greased and the bottom only lined with paper) for 30 minutes, with the "Regulo" at Mark 5. Turn out of tin and cool.

To make the Crême, beat egg and sugar over a pan of hot water until thick. Add this mixture to the butter, creaming well. Flavour with coffee essence.

To make Praline, heat nuts and sugar together in a saucepan over a low flame until the sugar has caramellised and the nuts "pop." Turn on to an oiled tin or slab to cool. When hard, pound in a mortar with a pestle, or crush with a rolling pin. Add this to two-thirds of the coffee crême.

To make the Cigarettes, whisk egg-whites and sugar together until thick. Whisk in flour and butter (in small pieces). If the mixture is too thick to pour from the spoon, add not more than one tablespoonful of warm water. Spread some mixture thinly on a greased and floured tin, forming six biscuits 2½ inches across. Bake for 3-5 mins. with the "Regulo" at Mark 7. Shape immediately into cornets or roll quickly round a pencil. Bake the remainder of the mixture in the same way. These may be served as flat biscuits with coffee.

To finish the cake, cover the sides and top with the Praline Crême. Pipe the plain coffee crême into the cornets and place these on top of the cake, radiating out to the edge. Pipe any remaining crême between the cornets. Dredge with icing sugar. If liked, 2ozs. brown chopped nuts can be pressed on to the sides of the cake and sprinkled on the crême in the cornets.

Finances of Clare Mental Hospital.—In his annual report, which will be considered at next meeting of the Clare Mental Hospital Committee, Dr. R. D. Brennan, Resident Medical Superintendent, states that the gross expenditure for the year amounted to £29,913, as compared with £29,261 for the previous year. He warned the committee when presenting the estimate for 1940-41 that they were rock-bottom figures, and that nothing less would suffice. Nevertheless, the committee decided to reduce them. He greatly feared that the financial resources would be quite inadequate to meet the strain imposed upon them, and that a supplementary estimate would be inevitable.

Justice Suggests a Settlement.—At Kilmainham Civil Bill Court yesterday, before District Justice Reddin, Norman French McLaghlen, 1 Lincoln place, sued Captain Edward Gerrard, "Hillcot," Rathfarnham, for £25, alleged to be due for a portrait of defendant, painted in oils by plaintiff, in or about last February. The Justice said that Captain Gerrard had contested this case on principle. He (the Justice) could understand if plaintiff had made a sketch or caricature of defendant, in return for his hospitality, but this portrait (produced) was a painting in oils, and seemed to be very capably executed. He did not want to grant a decree against defendant, but would suggest a settlement by defendant at £10 10s., and would adjourn the case for a month.

Football Official Killed.—Mr. Ivan Patterson (50), of Dufferin villas, Bangor, a leading Belfast football official, was killed in a motor accident at Carlisle Circus, Belfast, last Thursday night, and two Belfast women—Mrs. R. A. McKee, of Castle avenue, Antrim road, and Miss Winifred Gibson, Serpentine road—were injured. Mr. Patterson was at the wheel, and in the greasy condition of the road the car was caught in a skid and crashed into a lamp standard. The car was wrecked. Mr. Patterson and Mrs. McKee were removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where Mr. Patterson succumbed later in the night. He was suffering from severe head injuries. Mrs. McKee also sustained serious injuries. Miss Gibson was conveyed in a dazed state to the Mater Hospital, but was later able to go home. Mr. Patterson was hon. treasurer of the Cliftonville Football Club.

Justice on Honesty of Carters.—"Carters must have a high standard of honesty," said District Justice MacCabe at Waterford District Court yesterday when hearing a case in which John Byrne, carter, Queen's terrace, Waterford, was charged with the larceny of 1 cwt. and 6 lbs. of coal from a consignment of 10 cwt. of coal which he was delivering to a purchaser, John Taylor, 32 Green street, Waterford. District Justice MacCabe, having heard the evidence, told the defendant that he was a thief and a liar. His conduct in the witness-box had impressed him very badly. This was the sort of offence he could not look upon lightly, because it was one which it was essentially most difficult to discover or detect. He thought it was an offence for which defendant should be sent to jail. The case was adjourned for a week, the District Justice remarking he wanted time to consider what he would do.

AIR RAID SHELTERS

Lieutenant Blake, in a radio address last night, gave a number of points to be observed in the construction and siteing of an air raid shelter. Among these are the following:—

The shelter must be large enough to accommodate fairly comfortably all the members of the household.

It must be proof against the effects of blast from a high explosive bomb, and the walls and roof must be thick enough to prevent penetration by splinters of bombs, fragments of anti-aircraft shells or machine-gun bullets.

It must, if possible, be so placed that it cannot be buried by the collapse of adjoining buildings.

Where it cannot be erected clear of adjoining buildings, the roof must be strong enough to support any weight which may fall upon it, and an emergency exit must be provided to enable the occupants to escape if the main entrance is blocked.

PORTABLE WIRELESS AERIALS.

SILENT "TWELFTH" IN THE NORTH

MESSAGE FROM BELFAST GRAND MASTER

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

There were no "Twelfth" demonstrations in Northern Ireland to-day. The various County Grand Orange Lodges recently decided that owing to the war exigencies, and particularly the general desire not to interrupt war work, the usual demonstrations would not be held this year. A number of customary Orange arches were erected, however, in working-class districts of Belfast and Union Jacks were flown from numerous houses.

The Right Hon. Sir Joseph Davison, Belfast County Grand Master, in a message to Belfast Orangemen stated:—

"I would like to pay a tribute to our distinguished brother, Lord Craigavon, for his statement at Kirkistown, County Down, a fortnight ago, and also in the House of Commons yesterday, as to Ulster's position in this time of crisis in the history of our British Empire. He has clearly stated where Ulster stands and we, the loyal sons of the Empire, are prepared faithfully to back him in every way in our power for the protection and defence of our part of it. Ulster stands where it always did."

Instead of demonstrations Church services were held in Belfast and other parts of Northern Ireland.

NORTHERN HOLIDAYS

As there is still apparently some misapprehension on the part of those who would like to arrange holidays in Northern Ireland this year, it is pointed out that it will be found quite easy to comply with recent Northern Ireland Regulation.

The recent Order requires that any person who shall have entered Northern Ireland from any place other than another part of the United Kingdom shall, if so required by the police, satisfy them that his presence is for a purpose which is not detrimental to the preservation of peace and to maintenance of order.

A resident of Eire must have a valid passport or a travel permit card issued by the Eire authorities. Either of these documents may be obtained without difficulty on timely application to the Department of External Affairs in Dublin.

Visitors will find such well-known resorts as Bangor, Ballycastle, Newcastle, Portrush, Portstewart, Rostrevor, etc., less crowded than usual this year, and so they will experience every comfort and consideration. They will also find that travelling facilities are adequate and railway fares reasonable.

CURFEW ON YORKSHIRE COAST

From next Monday a curfew, lasting from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, is to be imposed on a part of the Yorkshire coast, stretching about 45 miles from Scarborough to Withernsea. The curfew applies to the parts of the East Riding of Yorkshire between the sea and the roads Scarborough-Bridlington-Winstead-Paull, including the roads themselves, and the towns of Filey, Bridlington, Hornsea and Withernsea and the neighbourhood of Hornsea Mere.

LEOPARDSTOWN PROGRAMME

KNIGHT OF THE BORDER SHOULD SCORE

Likely Double for Colonel Clarke

Daisy's Apron Fancied

TWO outstanding races on this afternoon's card at Leopardstown are the Sandyford Steeplechase and the Killiney T.Y.O. Plate. Nine runners have been dclared for the steeplechase, and the inclusion of such high-class jumpers as Jack Chaucer, Knockadroleen and Sterling Duke gives a special interest to the race. Jack Chaucer, winner of the Red Cross Steeplechase and the Irish Grand National, should have benefited by the race at Baldoyle last Saturday, in which he finished fourth, and should be a strong contender for the spoils, especially as the heavy rainfalls of the past few days will have made the going more to his liking. Recent running, however, suggests that is the best to stand.

Tote Double on Third and Fifth Races.

KNIGHT OF THE BORDER

Of the eleven declared runners for the Killiney Plate, Sweet Caprice is the only previous winner. Her score was readily gained, and she should again take a lot of beating, while her owner, Colonel Clarke, may win the Three Rock Plate with her half-brother, King's Caprice. Daisy's Apron seems to have a big chance in the Bray Plate. Selections:—

Three Rock Plate—King's Caprice.
Juvenile Plate—Etoile de Lyons.
Bray Plate—Daisy's Apron.
Killiney Plate—Sweet Caprice.
Sandyford Steeplechase—Knight of the Border.
Tower Plate—Ballypollard.

TOTE DOUBLE:

Daisy's Apron and Knight of the Border.

SWIMMING

P. KINSELLA WINS LIFFEY RACE

EX-HALF-MILE CHAMPION FINISHES STRONGLY

Inaugurated in 1920, and held annually with increasing success until 1936, the race from Guinness's Wharf to Butt Bridge was suspended in that year, until last evening. In the meanwhile the trophy was competed for annually at Dollymount. This year the Leinster Branch decided to revert to the original course.

A notable absentee was R. N. Case, the outstanding Irish swimmer at all distances, who won the trophy four times. Last year's winner over the Dollymount course, W. H. Ashmore, of Dublin University, was this year's scratchman, conceding up to eight minutes' start to the limit men.

Conor Brady (Sandycove), followed by McCluskey (Clontarf), was well in the van 100 yards from O'Connell Bridge, but at this juncture Pat Kinsella, the ex-half-mile champion, came through with a great burst, and took the lead just at the bridge. Collinge passed McCluskey near the bridge. Result:—

1, P. Kinsella (Sandycove) (2 mins.); 2, P. Collinge (Half Moon) (4½ mins.); 3, C. Brady (Sandycove) (6 mins.); 4, J. O'Neill (Clontarf) (5 mins.); 5, J. Cummins (Sandycove) (4 mins.); 7, P. G. Condon (North Dublin) (3 mins.).

44 started, and 42 finished. Won by 30 yards; a touch; ten yards. Time—25 mins. 26 secs.

YACHTING

ROYAL ALFRED CLUB MATCHES

HANDICAPS FOR DUBLIN BAY CLUB EVENTS

The chief events for this afternoon are the two "Corinthian" matches under the flag of the Royal Alfred Yacht Club. THE C. E. JACOB CUP AT DELGANY

CLOSING STAGE OF IRISH MOTOR TRADES' MEETING

By Our Golf Correspondent.

For the concluding day of the meeting at Delgany yesterday of the Irish Motor and Allied Trades' Society the conditions were much pleasanter than on Thursday; but for the cup presented by Mr. C. E. Jacob in 1916 the scoring again was high, control of the ball being difficult at some of the holes. The leading return was made by J. G. Byrne, of the Howth Club, who, receiving seven strokes, finished with the good score of 5 up. Fifty took out cards, and sixty-four played in the fourball, which was won by G. A. McLennan and C. Stevens with 9 up.

Mr. J. P. Burney, outgoing president, presided at the annual meeting, at which the officers for 1940-41 were elected as follows:—President—Mr. J. Thompson (Belfast). Vice-president—Mr. B. J. O'Donnell (Cork). Hon. Secretary—Mr. William Lemass (Dublin). Hon. Treasurer—Mr. C. O'Shea (Dublin). Committee—Messrs. V. Hamilton, S. Hutchinson, L. Callow, J. L. Crabbe, S. Goodwin, D. J. Smyth, T. J. Cullen, G. Huet, L. J. Lemass, J. Quinn and R. C. Flanagan.

It was decided to hold the autumn meeting in Cork on a Saturday in September.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Delgany Club, Dunlop Rubber Company and the outgoing president.

EXPRESSION OF HOPE

Jockey Club's Statement About Racing in England

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

LONDON, Friday Night.

IT is doubtful whether the announcement, so unexpectedly made last night from the Registry Office long after the appearance of the Calendar, that the Stewards hope it may be possible to arrange some race meetings in the autumn, will have much effect on the general situation. It is an expression of hope, and contains no promise, and one doubts whether any owner will, on the strength of it, put back into training any horses that have already been removed from their stables.

As already mentioned here, the horses that are being kept in steady work are the two-year-olds that have shown, or are showing, promise, and the good ones among the three-year-olds. Some races for these would have the desirable effect of determining to a certain extent the standard of merit of the first and second season horses.

Relative Form

In the case of the three-year-olds, the four substitute classic races that have been run and the Newmarket Stakes have given us a pretty fair idea of the relative form, as much as we should have at this period in any ordinary year. The last of the classic races, the St. Leger, is the final and determining test of stamina. Perhaps if some racing can be arranged—and many people are still sceptical on the point—it may be possible to have a race over a mile and three-quarters, the distance at which the St. Leger is run.

It is likely that the money offered by the Ascot authority which was not run for at Newmarket last month is still available. In case some such races as the private meetings to which the public are not admitted, as were run in France during the last war, were arranged, and this Ascot money was offered, the prizes would be well worth winning, and the promoters would be indemnified.

Out of the Question

A meeting on such a scale as that at Newmarket last month, when the Derby and Oaks were run for, is probably out of the question. There was violent protest from a section of the public that is ever hostile to racing in any shape or form over that meeting, and the risk will not be taken of holding such another.

Mention was made here some time ago of the circumstances that, although the American owner, Mr. J. E. Widener, sent the horses he had in training in France back to the States in the winter and spring, his brood mares and young stock remained in Normandy. These number nineteen in all, and I see that Mr. Widener, junior, stated yesterday that there is no idea whether they are safe or have been destroyed or removed from the establishment of H. Couturie, where they have been kept.

More than £60,000

Mr. Widener values the lot at more than £60,000, and this possibly is not excessive, considering the quality of most of the mares and the young sires only a year or two out of training.

One of these is Victrix II., who was one of the best three and four years old in his season in France, but failed to stay the distance when he came to England to run for the Ascot Gold Cup, in which he finished fourth. One of Mr. Widener's best-known mares is Confidence, who was a great winner on French courses.

LAWN TENNIS

IRISH CHAMPIONSHIPS

Fannin Beats Kemp in Great Match at Fitzwilliam

ONCE again wintry conditions prevailed at Fitzwilliam for the Irish Championships, and, as a result, the two semi-finals of the men's doubles, and one semi-final in the mixed and women's doubles could not be played rain setting in heavily in the evening.

The afternoon did produce one very remarkable encounter, A. E. Fannin beating C. A. Kemp in the second semi-final of the men's singles, after three-and-a-half hours. While giving Fannin every credit for a wonderful recovery, one must sympathise with Kemp, who led by two sets to one and 5-4 and 40-love on Fannin's service in the fourth, only to lose in the fifth set.

Kemp never fights a winning cause well; he becomes nervous and tentative with the match in his grasp, and so it was on this occasion. He returned Fannin's service into the net to make it 15-40; hit another weak shot into the net, on the next, and Fannin made it deuce with a winning drive. The chance did not come again. Fannin led 6-5, and Kemp took the next two games for 7-6, but he lost the next game on Fannin's service to love, and the latter levelled the sets at 9-7.

In the fifth set each lost his service for the first seven games, and then Fannin held his for 5-3, and went out in the next game.

They started in dry, windy conditions, but after two sets the rain started, and persisted, growing worse all the time until the end. Under these circumstances, the tennis was brilliant, each man fairly cracking the ball off the ground. For a time the length was indifferent, but the worse the light and rain the better the tennis became, and there was some really superb play by both in the last three sets. There was absolutely nothing between them until Kemp went away to a 5-2 lead in the fourth set, but that only made Fannin fight the harder. Still, in the end, it was Kemp's errors in that fatal tenth game which really decided it. Both lost leads in the first two sets. Kemp had 4-0 in the first, and lost it 7-5; Fannin was 4-2 in the second, and saw it slip away. The match was certainly a credit to both men, who played altogether sixty games.

There was one surprise in the women's semi-finals, and nearly another. Always a problem under abnormal conditions, Miss Olive Poole beat Miss E. Lombard, the first defeat sustained by the latter since she lost to Miss S. Noel at Carrickmines last July. An unlucky incident had an important bearing on the result; for Miss Lombard suffered a cartilage injury in the second set when the score was 3-all. That, of course, slowed her up considerably, but, it would be unfair to say that she would not have lost in any event.

Throughout the first set Miss Poole, with her steady, accurate driving to the base-line, held command, Miss Lombard over-driving continually. The majority of her best drives were picked up also, and, even though she fought hard for the second set, Miss Poole never lost her concentration, and went out in the fourteenth game.

In the other match Mrs. Goddard, with her crisp driving, led 4-2 and 40-love in the final set against Miss D. Curley, but netted two or three vital ground shots, and failed to win another game. The finals to-day should attract a full attendance at Fitzwilliam, the championships being in aid of the Irish Red Cross. Results:—

GREYHOUND RACING

CUTLET'S EDITION WINS AGAIN

CLOSE FINISHES AT HAROLD'S CROSS

There were several keen finishes last night at Harold's Cross Park, and one of the most exciting was that for the Midland Hurdle, in which Golden Rascal just got up to beat Fairview Willie by a short head. Keen Jane, off the limit mark, won the Munster Handicap Plate, a neck only separating her and Election Kid. Cutlet's Edition maintained a winning sequence by an easy win in the Sprint Plate. Details:—

ULSTER PLATE—Mr. J. Lynch's LYNNSIDE (2), 5 to 4, 1; MICK DECIDE (1), 7 to 2, 2; THE ENGINE MAN (4), 3 to 1, 3. Also ran—Dashing Lad (5), 5 to 1; Breezy Inlet (3), 4 to 1. 2l.; 3l. 31.98 secs.

METROPOLITAN HURDLE.—Miss D. Ham's HALSTON COLLEEN (6), 5 to 2, 1; ANOTHER ZEDA (4), 2 to 1, 2; ARRAH NO (1), 3 to 1, 3. Also ran—Said Ort (3), 3 to 1. 6l.; a distance. 32.26 secs.

LEINSTER PLATE—Mr. T. Nolan's JUDY IS GENEROUS (4), 6 to 1, 1; DUNLOE SANDILLS (3), 4 to 1, 2; FLIGHTY PHYLLIS (6), 5 to 1, 3. Also ran—South Bend (1), 2 to 1; Prodigal Son (2), 9 to 4; Meadow Grove (5), 5 to 1. 3l.; 6l. 31.21 secs.

MUNSTER HANDICAP PLATE—Mr. C. Allen's KEEN JANE (19 yds.), 4 to 1, 1; ELECTION KID (6 yds.), 3 to 1, 2; MUTILUS (scr.), 5 to 1, 3. Also ran—Mae Meadow (scr.), 3 to 1; Jochody's Pet (9 yds.), 3 to 1. A neck; 1½l. 30.85 secs.

MIDLAND HURDLE—Mr. R. Hickey's GOLDEN RASCAL (6), 7 to 4, 1; FAIRVIEW WILLIE (4), 5 to 2, 2; CROSSGAR (1), 2 to 1, 3. Also ran—Baytown Mystery (3), 7 to 2. Short head; 6l. 32.66 secs.

SPRINT FLAT (350 yards)—Mrs. B. Boland's CUTLET'S EDITION (3), evens, 1; THE GROVE (1), 7 to 2, 2; TOWER AT HOME (5), 5 to 1, 3. Also ran—Palais Glide (2), 5 to 1; Modern Game (4), 5 to 1. 2l.; 4l. 20.09 secs.

LIFFEY PLATE (550 yards)—Mr. G. Carty's EFETA (4), 9 to 2, 1; MOYNSHA SPRING (5), 3 to 1, 2; BONNY LAWN (1), 6 to 4, 3. Also ran—Not So Blue (6), 5 to 1; Dunloe Beauty (3), 6 to 1; Maigueside Flier (2), 6 to 1. ½l.; 3l. 33.09 secs.

SHELBOURNE PARK— TO-NIGHT

The seven races at Shelbourne Park to-night are qualifying stakes for the McAlinden Cup, and all are decided over 525 yards.

8.15—Baltray Boy, Westfield Bob, Lack Terce, Feather Patch, Luck Laddie, Waverley, Rathkenny Rebel, Rye Regent.

8.30—Valiant Sheller, Lively Larry, Clongowna Moon, Bright Eyed Robber, Master Kinai, Booster Generator, Fiallach, Moynsha Spring.

8.45—Midnight Bill, Carmel, Strange Mark, Come on Jockser, Roving Chevalier, Ned's Fort, Jolly Racket, Flying Clipper.

GAELIC GAMES

IMPORTANT TIES TO-MORROW

CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES IN FOUR PROVINCES

(By Pat'O.)

All four provinces have important championship matches to-morrow, and in the South the hurling re-play between Waterford and Limerick holds major interest. Waterford, well pleased with their Killarney display, have retained their formation in the main, while Limerick have made eight positional changes, bringing on Chawke (Castletown-Conyers) to partner Tim Ryan at midfield, and changing the younger Mackey, Pat Clohessy, Cooke, Herbert, and McCarthy to new positions. Two U.C.D. men find places, Stokes and McCarthy, and both should play well on recent form. The issue is very open.

Laoighis and Offaly, satisfied with the play of their teams in earlier rounds, make few changes for their Athy clash. So well is Joe O'Connor playing that he is considered the most dangerous rover in Leinster. His solo runs have been a feature of recent games, and his accurate shots from all ranges have materially helped Offaly. Despite their defeat of Kildare, I think Offaly lack the match-play experience of Laoighis, and I expect the Delaney team to reach the final against Meath.

Mayo have sought new blood against Sligo, and their prospects are bright for the re-play. The retirement of Moclair meant a loss of leadership, but I believe Mayo will come through and extend Galway in the Western final.

Ulster's football scheme is in the semi-final stage. Rising counties like Down and Donegal are engaged with old champions in Monaghan and Cavan. Whilst defeat of the more experienced sides is unlikely, both Down and Donegal are in winning mood. Surprises are the order of the day, and to-morrow may add to the list.

FIXTURES.

Clonmel—Limerick v. Waterford (re-play), 3.30.
Sligo—Sligo v. Mayo (re-play), 4.30.
Athy—Laoighis v. Offaly, 3.45.
Bundoran—Cavan v. Donegal, 4.0.
Castleblayney—Monaghan v. Down, 4.0.
Croke Park—Fontenoys v. Commercials, 11.45.
Parnell Park—Sean McDermotts v. Ben Edars, 12.

The G.S.R. have arranged a fast excursion train to Cork, calling at Thurles and Mallow, for Sunday, 21st July.

LOCAL SECURITY FORCES

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The following officers have been selected by the "B" group of the Dundalk Local Security Force:—

Anne street area—Group leader, John Maguire; assistant, Peter Kieran. Section leaders, John Daly, Peter Kieran, junr.; John Cosgrove, Ronald McArdle, Peter Watters. Bridge street area—Group leader, Captain James Higgins, Quay street; assistant, J. O'Byrne, McSwiney street. Section leaders, M. A. White, Fair Green; P. McCooey, Castle road; Patrick Murphy, Dowdallshill; P. Finn, Clanbrassil street; Thomas Conarchey, Quay street.

Members of Athlone Security Force made their first appearance in public on Thursday night, when, accompanied by the No. 4 Army Band and the Scouts' pipe band, they paraded through the principal streets of the town. The parade was in charge of Group Leader J. O'Meara and Group Leader Sean O'Hurley; Assistant G. L. Fox and Assistant G. L. O'Connor.

Athlone Group "B" appointed Mr. Harry O'Brien as leader, and Mr. F. Browne as assistant.

The Local Security Force in Limerick has now been fully organised, and is working efficiently. The following group leaders were appointed: "Military" Security Force (a)—Edward street, No. 1—Leader P. O'Shaughnessy; Edward street, No. 2—Leader P. Walsh. Mary street, No. 1—Leader J. Glennon; No. 2—Leader Daniel Gallagher. William street, No. 1—Leader D. O'Donovan; No. 2—Leader R. F. Ryan. John street, No. 1—Leader H. Nash; No. 2—Leader M. Toomey.

Mr. James Dillon, T.D., speaking at an all-party meeting at Ballaghaderreen yesterday, said that the country was in imminent danger. Briefly, the function of the Local Security Forces was to work in co-operation with the forces of the State to save the country from attack; and it was every individual's duty to stand shoulder to shoulder in this hour of peril. The freedom won down the centuries must be fought for to maintain it.

Sidney Horace Smith, aged 28, of Gifford's Cross road, Corringham, Essex, pleaded guilty at Grays (Essex) yesterday to killing a homing pigeon with an air gun. A neighbour who picked up the bird found it had a message on its leg and handed the message to the police. When the police called on Smith they found he had plucked the pigeon ready to cook it. Alderman A. Brooks, the magistrate, said that, as it was the first case under the new regulations, Smith would not be fined, but would have to pay 9s. costs.

ITALIAN CLAIMS

MEDITERRANEAN BATTLE "NOT CLOSED"

Yesterday's Italian communiqué, broadcast from Rome Radio, states:—

"The air and naval battle fought on the 8th-9th July has not yet definitely come to a close.

"Italian naval reconnaissances 'planes, in fact, sighted yesterday morning an enemy naval formation, composed of two battleships, one aircraft-carrier and smaller craft, cruising in the neighbourhood of Malta.

"This same formation was seen later escorting five large loaded vessels in an easterly direction.

"Upon receipt of this news from the reconnaissance 'planes, Italian bombers immediately left in successive waves at brief intervals.

"The enemy naval formation was followed for several hours, and was subject to a continuous hammering by the Italian bombing squadrons, which, unmindful of the violent anti-aircraft fire, came down to a range of a few hundred yards in order to launch their bombs more accurately.

"DESTROYERS DAMAGED"

"One enemy vessel in the convoy was certainly sunk, and two destroyers were so seriously damaged that one of them was forced to launch her lifeboats.

"The enemy aircraft-carrier came to a sudden halt after being hit by one large-sized bomb. Fires were plainly visible on her deck. At the same time other ships were seen to come to her aid.

"Fighter 'planes which had taken off from the aircraft-carrier were shot down in flames by the Italian 'planes. Two Italian 'planes are missing.

"In the battle which took place on July 9 anti-aircraft guns of our cruisers shot down five British naval torpedo 'planes and three British bombers. One of these bombers, still loaded with its bombs, was seen to explode when it hit the water.

BOMBING IN AFRICA

"In Northern Africa Italian aviation and light land units have been active on the Cirenaica border. Armoured cars and tanks have been destroyed or captured. Enemy barracks and motor vehicles were set on fire at Sidi Barrani.

"One enemy 'plane was shot down and a number of prisoners taken.

"In East Africa a number of places have been bombarded very effectively. In British Somaliland the aerodromes of Berbera and Burao have been bombed.

"In Kenya, Italian 'planes bombed the base of Wajir. Here two British fighter 'planes were shot down in an air combat. All the Italian 'planes returned safely."—(P.A. War Special.)

BRITISH REPLY

"NOT A WORD OF TRUTH"

In regard to the Italian communiqué broadcast which goes into details about the alleged successes of Italian bombers against the British Fleet, the Press Association learns in informed circles that there does not seem to be a word of truth in the whole of this communiqué.

It is known in London that about eight bombing raids were made on the British Fleet yesterday. One Italian bomber is believed to have been shot down, and one of the British fighters became unserviceable after it had landed. These attacks were made on the Eastern Mediterranean Fleet.

Up to the present time it has not been possible to give further details of the engagements in the Mediterranean, and it is explained that a full account will have to await the return of the Commander-in-Chief to his base, as the sending of news by radio naturally gives away the location of the Fleet.

BUY MORE SUGAR

RESPONSE TO APPEAL OF GOVERNMENT

Since the first appeals to householders and others to buy sugar in larger quantities were made the average weekly sale of sugar has been increased from 2,000 to over 3,000 tons.

This fact is considered a fairly good response to the appeal, but even greater increase of buying is urged, and plans have been made by the Irish Sugar Company to meet the expected higher demand.

Six weeks' extra supply of sugar, to be kept for use in an emergency, is to be distributed all over the country under a scheme operated by the Irish Sugar Company.

The company's object is to spread available supplies throughout the country as soon as possible. Arrangements have been made to store about 12,000 tons. About 5,000 tons are being distributed to householders and 4,000 tons to merchants, as it is necessary to have supplies available for those who are not in a position to purchase largely at the present time.

A representative of the Irish Sugar Company told an Irish Times reporter that an urgent written appeal had been made to convents, colleges and institutions of such kind to take in emergency stocks of sugar.

LIMERICK A CONTROLLED PORT

Mr. D. McNeice, Secretary, Limerick Harbour Board, has received notification from the Army Headquarters, Southern Command, that it is the intention to make Limerick a controlled port in accordance with the Emergency Powers Act, 1940.

It is further stated that Mr. C. J. Hanrahan, Harbour Master, will be appointed the competent port authority with commissioned rank.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

We have obtained all the information and explanations we have required in the course of our examination in detail of the foregoing Profit and Loss Account and Balance Sheet.

We have verified the Investments. Their market value as on 30th June, 1940, is in excess of the amount at which they stand in the Balance Sheet. We have also verified the Cash and Bills in hand at the Head Office.

The Balance Sheet is, in our opinion, properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Company's affairs according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the Books of the Company and the Certified Returns from the several Branches.

FEW FEATURES IN QUIET MARKETS

DUBLIN

Quiet conditions marked the close of the week on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and the tone, in general, was inclined to be irregular. Home Funds continued to attract attention, and British Funds were quiet and unaltered. Irish Industrials on balance showed little change, and amongst British Industrials, Tobacco issues moved upward.

The Second, Third and Fourth National Loans were unaltered, and 4 p.c. Conversion gained one point at 101, as did 4 p.c. Exchequer Bonds 5/- to 102¼. 4½ p.c. Land Bonds hardened 12/6 to 105⅝, but the Fours eased ¼ to 99. 3¾ p.c. Financial Agreement Loan fell 15/- to 99¼. 3½ p.c. War Loan unchanged at 99. Dublin Corporation 5 p.c. 1946/76 advanced 1¼ points to 102¼. Elsewhere in this group prices were unchanged.

Bank of Ireland stock repeated 245, but Munster and Leinster were a shade off at 88/-. Guinness Ord. came in for more liquidation, and finished 1/6 down at 54/6. Dublin Tram Ord. were 6d. harder at 8/9, but Alliance Gas Ord. lost a further 3d. to 19/9.

Amongst Irish Industrials, Carroll Ord. fell 3d. to 22/9, while the Pref. advanced a like amount to 21/3. Clondalkin Paper closed 1½d. down at 4/10½. Ever Ready Ord. put on 3d. to 8/3. Hammond Lane Ord. quoted 26/- and the Pref. repeated 20/-. I.C.S. Building gained ½ point to 42½, while Solus, Irish Sugar and May Roberts (I.) Preferences repeated former levels.

British-American Tobacco Ord. higher at 64/6, and Imperials rose 1/9 to 85/3. Coats Ord. were 9d. lower at 26/6, and Courtaulds marked last price, 24/6.

LONDON

Few features of interest made their appearance on the London Stock markets yesterday, and, if anything, business was even quieter than on the previous day. On the whole, a steady tendency prevailed, though the majority of movements on balance were small declines. Many Industrials were barely tested, and Oil Shares and Kaffirs also moved narrowly. A splash of colour was provided by an upturn in Japanese Loans, the movement being a reflection of the more hopeful views of the Far Eastern political situation.

Turnover in Gilt-edged remained at a low ebb, and for the greater part of the session jobbers were satisfied to leave quotations unchanged. The market developed a sagging tendency in the closing stages, however, and Old War Loan and Old Consols both shed ⅛, the former to 99⅛ and the latter to 72⅛.

Apart from the revival of interest in Japanese issues, among which the 6 per cent. 1924 was especially prominent with a spurt of 1½ to 26½, Foreign Bonds continued lifeless, with Brazilians uncertain and Egyptian Unified offered down to 54.

British Rails wound up the week in fairly good fettle. Southern Preferred and London Transport "C" showed up well, and Great Western Ordinary held steady at 28. The feature among Prior Charges was further activity in G.W. and Southern 5 per cent. Preferences, and both issues moved up to 71, at which level rises of a point were shown. Foreign Rails continued quiet.

BUSINESS ALMOST NON-EXISTENT

INDUSTRIALS

Quietly steady aptly described conditions ruling in the Industrial Market. Fresh business was almost non-existent, but prices, on the whole, held up. Fewer buyers or sellers were about, and operators generally showed a disposition to stay over the week-end pending further developments on the European and Near Eastern fronts.

Iron, Coal, and Steel shares showed no decided trend. Tube Investments and Dorman Long received a little support from the provinces, the prices hardening to 72/- and 15/6 respectively.

Electric Supply shares remained quietly firm, while in the Equipment section British Insulateds strengthened to 3⅝.

Aircrafts were scarcely mentioned, and Motors were still uncertain. Leylands eased to 2 7/16, but Dennis were a few pence harder at 10/6.

Breweries continued dull, with Guinness still a weak market and 2/6 lower at 55/-. Tobaccos were fairly well maintained, though "Imps" eventually lost the turn at 4 3/16. "Bats" were maintained at 3¼, but Gallahers were 1/16 to the good.

The Stores group held the improvement of the preceding day, with Marks and Spencer closing a further 6d. up at 31s. 9d.

In other directions, Barry and Staines, London Brick, Spillers, Ranks, Courtaulds, and United Molasses all received quiet support. Conversely, British Aluminium, Lever and Unilever, Michael Nairn, Cerebos, Birmids, and Pinchin Johnson were dull spots.

MINES

There was even less business in the Mining Market yesterday than on the earlier days of the week, and, as a result, most prices were neither tested nor changed.

Kaffirs, so far as could be judged, fully maintained the steadier tendency evident on the previous day, although a few of the dividend-payers again lost ground. Brakpan, at 1 1/16, and City Deep, at 1⅛, were both 1/16 easier; and similar losses were incurred by Durban Deep and Rose Deep. Sub Nigel came back ⅛ to 7. Rand Leases, on the other hand, responded to modest buying with a rise of 1/16 to 1 5/16. Venterspost, at 15/16, were similarly better, while West Wits. put on 1/16 to 1¼. Other Gold shares were generally neglected, but steady. Gold Coast Selection, in West Africans, were being quietly picked up, and the shares rose 3d. to 8/6. A small improvement was also recorded by G. C. Banket, but Amal. Banket fell slightly.

Apart from Nigerian issues, which attracted some buying, Tins were without interest. Bisichi improved 3d. 5/6, and gains of 1½d. were secured by Ex. Lands and Uniteds.

There was rarely a change in the other Base Metal shares. In Diamonds, "Casts" and Cons. Diamonds both recovered 3d., but De Beers Defd., at 3, were ⅛ down.

OILS AND RUBBERS

Dealers in Oil Shares reported extremely idle conditions, hardly any interest being displayed by either professional operators or the general public. The few transactions recorded were in small lines of shares which normally would have been without influence on prices. Actually there was no selling pressure in any direction, and the few price changes finally shown reflected sentiment rather than business.

A few of the Preference issues of leading companies had an improving tendency. Anglo-Iranian Eights strengthened to 23s., and the Nines to 21s., while Burmah Eights improved to 32s. 9d.

Following the improvement of the preceding day, a few "Shells" came to market, and as there were no ready takers of the stock on offer, the price receded 1/16 to 1 11/16. Anglo-Iranians remained quiet, finishing unchanged at 1½. Burmahs weakened at one period to ⅛, but rallied on a little support, and closed at the overnight's level of 2 3/16.

There was little doing in Trinidad issues, among which Leaseholds fell back 1/16 to 2¾, and Trinidad Petroleum Developments drooped at one period to 36s. 3d., but left off without net change at 37s. There was insufficient business in Venezuelan or Miscellaneous issues to influence prices.

Despite the encouraging nature of the latest dividend statements, Rubber Shares finished the week very quietly. Business was again confined to a narrow range of issues, and few alterations occurred among quotations.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

The flow of funds to the Treasury in payment for Treasury deposit receipts produced a considerable strain upon the monetary situation in London yesterday, and, after several days of comparative ease, money again became quite usable. The average rate at which Treasury Bills were allotted was £1 0s. 4.97d., against £1 0s. 5.105d. last week. The situation in the Discount Market was not materially altered, except that the clearing bank demand for bills showed some contraction. Rates were maintained at the usual levels.

Silver was again on the weak side, spot losing 1/16d. to 21⅛d., and forward ⅛d. to 21⅛d. per ounce.

In the Foreign Exchange Market, Baltic and Balkan currencies improved against sterling, following the overnight deterioration in the "free" pound in New York. Thus, the Latvian rate moved from 18½ to 18¼, the Esthonian rate from 14½ to 14, and the Lithuanian quotation from 21½ to 20½. In the Far-Eastern section Japanese yen appreciated from 15½d. to 15¾d.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Aircrew Co.—Profit, £86,342 (against £31,689). Final Ordinary dividend of 15 per cent., making 25 per cent. (against 22½ per cent.).

Assam-Doors Tea.—Profit, £95,179 (against £75,051). Final Ordinary dividend 22½ per cent., making 30 per cent. (same). Forward, £22,149 (against £19,339).

Amalgamated Dental.—Trading profit, £177,164 (against £210,275). Net profit, £88,250 (against £134,985). No Deferred dividend (against 5 per cent.). Forward, £37,940 (against £27,139).

Biting Rubber.—Dividend of 10.416 per cent. (against 6½ per cent.).

Beecham Maclean Holdings.—Final of 6.4 per cent., making 27.4 per cent. (against 16½ per cent. on smaller capital).

Lanell.—Gross profit of £240,594 in the year to March 31 last, compared with £122,091 in the previous period. As already known, the Ordinary dividend is increased from 5 per cent. to 6 per cent.

Lambak Rubber.—Dividend of 7½ per cent. (against 2½ per cent.).

Midland Bank.—The half-yearly statement shows that at the end of June, 1940, current, deposit, and other accounts at £509,810,769 were £12,109,618 above the December 31 total, and £41,178,193 more than at the end of June last year — a record. Advances have fallen to £207,541,848 from £220,689,155 on December 31st. Although cash is about £2,500,000 below the December figure, there is a rise compared with a year ago of just over £9,600,000. The ratio of cash to deposits is 10.8 per cent. (against 9.7 per cent. a year ago), and the ratio of advances to deposits 40.7 per cent., compared with 46.9 per cent.

Pacific Steam Navigation.—Balance of £146,524 (against £168,052). Adding the sum of £8,052 brought in, there is a total of £154,576, of which £150,000 is transferred to fleet replacement account, leaving £4,576 to be carried forward. A year ago £160,000 was applied to meet depreciation of fleet.

Ribon Valley (Nigeria) Tinfields.—Final of 15 per cent., making 20 per cent. (against 5 per cent.).

Silentbloc.—Profit, £64,412 (against £47,511). Final dividend 12½ per cent., making 25 per cent. (against 50 per cent., and capital bonus of 100 per cent.).

The Yam Seng Rubber Co.—Report for year ended Mar. 31, 1940, shows that profit was £7,032, compared with £3,612 in the previous year. Transfer to general reserve and replanting fund, £1,000. (Last year £500 to general reserve.) Dividend of 10 per cent. less tax (against 5 per cent. less tax); carry forward, £9,064, compared with £2,118 brought in. The crop harvested amounted to 552,936 lb., against 504,669 lb. The rubber received for export, after making statutory adjustments, was 560,620 lb. (against 394,206 lb.) Meeting, 36 College Green, Dublin, on Tuesday, July 23.

Vallambrosa Rubber.—Net profit, £12,338 (against £6,665). Dividend for year, 20 per cent. (against 10 per cent.).

H. Williams and Co.—Interim dividend is being maintained at 4 per cent. (9 3-5d. per share) on Ordinary shares.

CORRAMORE, ATHLEAGUE, CO. ROSCOMMON.

HIGHLY ATTRACTIVE RESIDENTIAL FARM FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION, ON THE LANDS, ON MONDAY, JULY THE 29th, 1940, AT 2.30 O'CLOCK P.M. (SUMMER TIME).

WE have been favoured with instructions by the representatives of Charles Henry Bagot, Esq., Deceased, to OFFER FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION, at the time and place above mentioned, PART OF THE LANDS OF GORTEENCLOUGH OR CORRAMORE (otherwise CURRAGHMORE), being the subject of Folio No. 14093 County Roscommon, containing 86 acres 3 roods and 10 perches, Statute Measure, more or less, with the two-storey slated Residence, containing 3 reception rooms, 5 bedrooms, kitchen, scullery, etc., greenhouses, enclosed haggard with hayshed. Two fully enclosed fruit and vegetable gardens (one of which is fully stocked with fruit), and ample stabling accommodation thereon. All held in Fee-Simple, subject to an Irish Land Commission annuity of £13 1s. 10d. P.L.V. of Land £59 5s. 0d., P.L.V. of Buildings £9 0s. 0d.

The Lands, which are beside the rising town of Athleague, are considered the best grazing and meadow lands in the district, are divided into nice-sized fields, well sheltered, faultlessly fenced and have a never-failing supply of water from the River Suck and a pump in the yard.

The Residence, which is in perfect repair, has a full southern aspect, and is approached by a short, well-sheltered avenue.

The Farm is ideally and centrally situated, being about equal distances from Ballygar and Roscommon, where there are good Vocational, Secondary and Boarding Schools, and the best fairs and markets in the West. Therefore we cordially invite inspection and commend the place to anyone on the look out for a good farm and a very attractive homestead.

TERMS:—Purchaser on being declared to pay one-fourth purchase money, plus 5 per cent. Auctioneers' Commission, balance on completion of Sale.

For further particulars and Conditions of Sale apply to:
WHITE & MEARES, Solicitors, 41 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin; or

MOUNT BROWNE, STROKESTOWN,
CO. ROSCOMMON
(2 Miles from Strokestown).

EXCELLENT FARM AND RESIDENCE,
FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION,
On the Lands of
MOUNT BROWNE,
STROKESTOWN,
On WEDNESDAY NEXT, 17th JULY, 1940,
At 1 o'clock p.m. (S.T.).

Mount Browne, containing 146 acres 3 roods 27 perches, is situated in a fertile district in the heart of Co. Roscommon, adjacent to Strokestown, Tulsk, Elphin and Roscommon, well known all over Ireland for the quality of the stock produced. This compact farm comprises some excellent land well fenced, laid out and watered by lake and river. The lands are mostly laid down in permanent pasture, but the purchaser will have the benefit of this season's crop, which includes 8 acres of oats, 3 acres of barley, 2 acres of turnips and potatoes.

The Residence is two-storey, stone-built and slated, and comprises hall, 3 reception rooms, 8 bedrooms, kitchen, pantries, servants' apartments, etc. The out-offices, comprising stables, granaries, etc., stone-built and slated, are in good conditnon, and include a 75-ton corrugated iron hay barn. There is a valuable eel weir appurtenant to the lands.

The lands provide a good supply of turbary, and the whole property presents an exceptional opportunity for acquiring a first-class residential farm in the right locality.

The vendor is selling as tenant for life under the Settled Land Acts 1882-1890, and the property is held under Indenture of Lease (with power of renewal) subject to a head rent of £43 10s. 0d. yearly. Rateable Valuation—Land, £84 15s.; Buildings, £25 15s.

Terms: One-fourth purchase money, together with Auctioneers' Fees at 5 per cent. on date of sale; balance of purchase money on completion of sale.

Lord George Manton was fined £10 at Camberley for driving a utility van with unmasked headlamps. P.C. Saunders said that when stopped Lord Manton said: "Is this all such fools as you have to do while gentlemen like me are fighting for their country?" In a letter to the Bench, Lord Manton said there were two masks to fit the lamps and [illegible] were killed.
